

U. S. Still Expresses Optimism

Hanoi Rejects Draft Changes

By United Press International

North Vietnam today rejected any basic changes in the draft cease-fire for Vietnam, but the United States said that peace was coming nevertheless.

All indications were that the private talks between Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, a member of the ruling Politburo in Hanoi, would resume this weekend or early next week.

Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator in Paris, said Tho would fly to Paris Friday from Moscow, and White House sources said Kissinger would leave "soon," the exact time to be announced later.

The White House has continued to express optimism over the outcome of the Kissinger-Tho talks and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter reflected that optimism at today's session of the regularly scheduled talks in Paris.

"Each of us is aware that the restoration of peace in Vietnam is approaching," Porter said. "The goal of a peaceful settlement (is) much nearer than we imagined only a few weeks ago."

He took note of a series of tirades by the Viet Cong delegation in Paris and Hanoi Radio and called on the Communists not to endanger peace by invective, exaggerated rhetoric, recriminations and unfounded charges of bad faith.

Thuy told the 167th session of the peace talks, "we resolutely reject all pretexts put forward by the United States and Saigon for modification of the substance of the agreement."

"There is no argument which militates in favor of a modification of the agreement," he said. "We demand that the United States sign the draft as it has been agreed as early as possible."

Despite Thuy's statements, South Vietnamese negotiator Nguyen Xuan Phong renewed Saigon's demands for changes in the nine-point agreement broadcast by Hanoi Radio—demands that have so far blocked signing the agreement. They were:

—A cease-fire must include all of Indochina. The draft mentions only Vietnam.

—North Vietnam must withdraw all its troops from South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

—The Demilitarized Zone set up in 1954 after the French Indochina War must be re-established as a buffer between North and South Vietnam.

—The Communists must drop their demand for any three-segment temporary authority in Saigon with Viet Cong participation.

But Thuy made it clear Hanoi did not plan to withdraw its troops from South Vietnam as Saigon has demanded.

Hanoi Radio again today lashed out at the United States for its massive supply of war material to South Vietnam and demanded an immediate signing of the Vietnam draft peace agreement.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry, in a statement broadcast by the North Vietnam news agency, said the United States has rushed heavy volume of arms and war equipment to South Vietnam in the first half of November.

It said, "many" American military personnel have been sent to Saigon disguised as civilians to train South Vietnamese troops even after the war.

It said the recent shipment of war material exposed "clearly" the U.S. design of negotiating from a position of strength and maintaining the Nguyen Van Thieu administration."

As indications increased that a new meeting was imminent, the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese said they would fight any attempt by the South Vietnamese to join the secret discussions. Previous private talks were limited to North Vietnamese and Kissinger.

President Nguyen Van Thieu reportedly still objects to some provisions of a proposed agreement. He wanted a guarantee that North Vietnamese troops will be withdrawn and that there will be no attempt to take over the Saigon government after the United States pulls out.

North Vietnamese diplomats made it clear that Tho was returning to Paris to talk to Kissinger.

Negotiators for the United States, North Vietnamese and the South Vietnamese were either on their way to Paris or getting ready to leave for the French capital.

MOSCOW GREETINGS—Le Duc Tho (L), North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, is greeted at airport in Moscow by O. Rakhmanin, 1st deputy chief of Soviet Communist Party's central committee. Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger will meet Tho in Paris this weekend or early next week to resume negotiations toward ending the Vietnam war, White House sources said. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

CONFERENCE ON PEACE—President Nixon kept an eye on peace diplomacy and discussed with Vice President Agnew the possible solution for ending the Vietnam war.

South Viet Infantrymen Retake Part of Coast Town

SAIGON (UPI) — A helicopter-borne South Vietnamese infantrymen battalion recaptured part of the devastated coastal highlands town of Ba To today in a dawn attack in heavy fighting around the former U.S. Ranger outpost.

The Communists captured Ba To, 300 miles north of Saigon, Oct. 31 after a six-week siege. Field reports said the 500-man government battalion landed by helicopter Wednesday within 500 yards of Ba To then retook the western half of the town today and hoisted the red and gold South Vietnamese flag. Communist troops were reported dug in in the eastern part of Ba To. The fight to retake it today was heavy, military sources said.

Ninety miles to the southwest. A 500-man South Vietnamese Ranger battalion manning a Central Highlands frontier post lost contact with headquarters at sundown Wednesday shortly after a North Vietnamese attack began, field reports said today.

The missing battalion was manning an outpost within a few miles of so-called "Base Area 702," a Communist stronghold in jungles overlap the Cambodian and Vietnamese frontiers. A Communist buildup has been under way there for months.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. tactical jets flew 270 sorties (a sortie is one mission by one plane) in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m. east of Quang Tri City and in Wednesday, the U.S. command said. This was down from the 300 such strikes flown the previous day.

The northernmost air raid reported Wednesday was a Navy F4 Phantom jet strike that destroyed a missile site eight miles west-northwest of Thanh Hoa or about 80 miles south of Hanoi.

Far to the south in the Saigon area, three 122mm rockets hit the South Vietnamese military base at Cu Chi, 15 miles northwest of the capital, early today. Military sources said two soldiers were killed and the Central Highlands around Pleiku, the Saigon command said.

Nine Americans were reported killed in action in South-east Asia last week and 26 others were wounded, the U.S. command said today.

The deaths included one American killed in Laos and five Americans who died in an accident aboard the USS Midway on Oct. 24.

A command spokesman said there was no information available on the man killed in Laos.

The deaths brought the total number of Americans killed in Indochina warfare so far this year to 287 and the total since Jan. 1, 1961, to 45,913.

'Discrimination Cause of Disturbance'... Rev. Gilmore

KINGSTON The Rev. John H. Gilmore, director of the Kingston Human Relations Commission, said at a press conference today that discrimination against black students was the cause of a disturbance at Kingston High School Wednesday that resulted in arrest of six pupils and suspensions of 32, including the six arrested.

Rev. Gilmore declined to reveal the contents of a list of grievances which the students allegedly tried to present to high school principal Daniel Allen shortly after school began Wednesday, but said that one complaint concerned the guidance department, which black students feel discriminated against them.

He said he had been promised "100 per cent cooperation" by school administrators and would meet with them soon to make a series of recommendations for changes in the school system designed to ease tensions among black students.

He also declined to reveal the results of a meeting of more than 100 persons Wednesday night in the Rondout Community Center. He said the meeting had not been called by his organizations but by black parents concerned over the incident.

As reconstructed by Police Chief Julius Glassman, the incident began when the black students went to the high school office to present their grievances. Allen allegedly told the group to go to the school auditorium for a discussion, but the students refused to go, leading to police being summoned to the school.

Glassman said that about 40 off duty police officers were called up during the disturbance. They reportedly ordered the students to disperse and go back to class, but the students reportedly refused. A bus was summoned and the 32 students were taken to police headquarters at 10:30 a.m.

One of the six arrested was identified by Glassman as Percy Broadhead, 16, of 126F Colonial Gardens, charged with criminal trespass third degree. Broadhead is not a student at the high school, Glassman said.

The other five, identified by Glassman as high school students, were Gay F. Faulkner, 18, of 79 West Union Street, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest; Thelma Price, 17, assault third degree and disorderly conduct; Elizabeth Waters, 17, of 83 Broadway, disorderly conduct; Margaret Knox, 17, of 26 Post Street, disorderly conduct; and India Fitzgerald, 17, of 14½ Ravine Street, disorderly conduct.

George W. Washbourne, assistant district superintendent, said the 32 pupils had been suspended and would be admitted back to school after their parents had had conferences with Allen. Rev. Gilmore said that all 32 students had been returned to classes today.

Off-duty police called up by Glassman were dismissed Wednesday afternoon.

'Could Hear Toys Falling', 7-Year-Old Recounts Tragedy

By MATT SPIRENG

CENTERVILLE The Frank Perrin family of six attempted to escape the raging inferno which their house had become early Wednesday morning, but only the two youngest children made it out alive before flames engulfed the rest of the family.

The story of what happened was told to police by Todd Perrin, 7, who lost both his parents and two older brothers in the tragic blaze.

According to Hurley BCI Investigator Carl Van Wagenen, Mark, 11, was the first to be awakened by the fire, which began sometime before 6 a.m. Mark, who was to perish in the blaze, yelled and woke the rest of the family.

At that time, the entire living room of the house was in flames, Todd told police, and the fire was coming up the stairs to the bedroom.

All six of the Perrins then rushed into an upstairs bedroom at the southwest corner of the house. The father attempted to get a window open, but, according to authorities, encountered some difficulty.

Finally, he was able to open the window, and the two youngest children were pushed onto a roof at the rear of the house. Todd and his younger brother, Sean, 5, were apparently able to climb from the roof, and rushed to a neighbor's house.

According to authorities, Todd said he could hear shelves with his toys falling as he escaped from the burning house. Police surmise that the sound Todd heard was actually that of the floor collapsing, carrying the remainder of his family to their deaths in the raging fire below.

Dead were Frank and Sha-lene Perrin, and two of their four children, Mark and Scott, 10.

County Coroner Richard M. Buono issued a verdict of death due to burning for all four.

Todd and Sean were listed in satisfactory condition at Kingston Hospital today.

Although firefighters from the Centerville and Woodstock Companies had the blaze extinguished before 7 a.m., it was several hours before all the bodies were uncovered in the burned out skeleton which was once a home.

Debrosky Is Upset

By LYNN MULVANEY

ESOPUS County Legislator Glenn A. Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) is considerably upset by the proposed $2,000 increases in salary for county legislators and so are his constituents, he claims, so he is going to offer an amendment to the preliminary $32.6 million 1973 budget referring it back to committee for changes which would lower or wipe out some of the more substantial salary increases.

"When I first decided to run for office three years ago the salary of a legislator was $2,000. When I took office it was $3,000, now they want to raise it to $5,000," Debrosky explained, putting the blame at the feet of the Finance Committee which drew up the budget rather than the legislators themselves.

Related story on page 4.

Debrosky also targeted in on other salary increases for legislative and department heads citing a proposed $6,000 raise for County Clerk Albert Spada from $12,000 to $19,000. "Why $6,000 is more than what 40 per cent of the county employees make in a year," he said.

Debrosky also took exception to a $4,500 proposed increase for chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) whose present salary is $7,500. "That raise," he said, "is bigger than the salaries of beginning secretaries and maintenance men."

The Esopus legislator recalling that last year he was "taken to task" by fellow legislators for insisting that a $2 million surplus in the budget was "too much," said that after a year he has been proven right as the 1973 budget projects a $2,650,000 surplus, "even bigger than last year!"

WRECKAGE FOUND — On Aug. 12, 1944, U.S. Navy Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. climbed into an old bomber packed with explosives and took off into the dusk on a daring mission. But the bomber blew apart, killing the two airmen and showering the English countryside with fragments of wreckage. A police constable said that they found it near Saxmundham, 90 miles northeast of London. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Princess Anne—Too Fast

Princess Anne faces possible prosecution on alleged speeding charge according to London police. It would be the first prosecution of a member of Britain's present royal family. Police officials said Anne, 22, was stopped on two separate occasions earlier this month for exceeding the 70 mile limit on Britain's motorways. On both occasions she was at the wheel of an expensive Reliant Scimitar sports car similar to one given her by her parents for her 21st birthday. Her own car was being serviced at the time. Traveling Amish Family... Another Problem

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. — A problem is facing Garber, Eli Garber, an Amish farmer who passed through Kingston in August, 1971, in a covered wagon with his family on a trip from Arkansas to Maine, is finding that a trip back from Maine to Pennsylvania is no easier. Garber was halted at the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge in 1971 and told that he couldn't cross because of the animals. Then he had to continue north past Albany until he could cross into New England. Now a similar problem is facing Garber, and a longer detour was almost necessary.

His trip, an 800-mile jaunt, stalled Wednesday night because of a New York state law forbidding livestock from the Bear Mountain Bridge that crosses the Hudson River just west of here. That law includes horses, even if they are pulling a wagon carrying an Amish farmer, his wife and four children.

The 39-year-old farmer parked his wooden-spoked wagon in a rest area on N.Y. 202 across from the local hamburger drive-in restaurant. His two horses were tethered in a nearby field.

But it looks like the modern technology he abhors has come to his aid. Efforts by a local radio station brought a promise from bridge authorities they might allow the tiny wagon carrying Garber and his family to cross "by special escort" today.

Garber's journey was special in itself. Speaking through plastic sheeting that guarded his wooden wagon from the below-freezing cold, he said he had spent the last year homesteading in Maine in an attempt to escape the industrialized society that was creeping up on his community near Harrisburg. He said he traveled through the Catskill Mountains on his way to Maine but decided to follow a coastal route on the way back. He said he was returning to try to convince other Amish families that New England offered a more simple and less congested life.

Garber said things had changed in the old Pennsylvania-Dutch country. He said his year in Maine was an attempt to "get away from the influence The People (the modern Amish) seemed to be getting into."

"We're more old order minded," he said. "There are a lot of us who are not satisfied." He said he would "talk it over" with the others in Pennsylvania about moving to New England and "try to get organized together."

Life in Maine, he said, "was very satisfying." Though it was cold in the winter (he said the temperature once dipped to 40 below zero), the bearded Garber said the life was good and his family did not want for much.

City Hall Dedication... Nov. 26

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Formal dedication of the new city hall on Meadow Street will be held on Sunday, Nov. 26, beginning at 2 p.m.

Mrs. June R. Diamond, the mayor's secretary, and chairman of the City Hall Dedication Committee, said that plans are "just about complete" for what she termed "an historic occasion."

Music will be provided by Troop 12 Indians who will assemble in the rear parking lot of city hall at 1:30 p.m. and offer a selection of "patriotic songs."

The program kicks off at 2 p.m. with flag-raising ceremonies. Three city policemen and three firemen will serve as the color guard. The flag will be raised by Mayor Francis R. Koenig followed by the singing of the National Anthem by Officer Richard Scherer. (Officer Scherer also sang the National Anthem at the first session of the Common Council held in the new city hall in October.)

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies will then be held with Mayor Koenig, former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Alderman Emilio A. Primo Jr. (D-Eighth Ward), chairman of the Building and Supply Committee of the Common Council, Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), majority leader of the Council and Alderman

Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward), minority leader of the Council, participating.

Ceremonies will continue with invocation in the Council Chambers, followed by City Historian Harry J. Rigby Jr. who will give a speech on the history of Kingston. Rigby will also act as moderator.

Former Mayor Garraghan will then give a speech followed by Mayor Koenig. Benediction will follow Koenig's speech.

Following the mayor's address, city hall will be open for tours by the public. All offices will be manned by their respective personnel who will explain the duties and services of their offices. Refreshments will be served in the Council Chambers. The program will conclude at 5 p.m.

City hall has been one of Kingston's longer continuing controversies dating back to 1965 when Garraghan, then running for his first term, suggested that the city needed a new municipal building. The controversy dragged on through the four years of the Garraghan administration (1966-1969) and it was not until June of 1969, toward the end of Garraghan's terms as mayor that the Common Council approved the necessary funds to construct the building on its five-acre site on the corner of Broadway and the new Meadow Street.

It remained for Koenig, who took office in Jan. 1, 1970, to get the building into construction. Ground was broken in May of 1970 with a projected completion date of February, 1972. (City officials and the contractors were apparently confident of beating that deadline in those days; the cornerstone on building reads "1971".)

Delay and controversy continued, however, and the building was not certified as complete (for occupancy) until late August of 1972. The city government moved in on Sept. 20. Albert E. Milliken of Fair Street was the architect on the $972,000 building. George E. Swart of Kingston was the general contractor.

Cuba Extends 'Negotiating' Signal

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are very encouraged by a strong Cuban signal on Wednesday in a broadcast from Havana, saying "the government of Cuba is willing, and without delay, to take such steps which might lead to the adoption of a broad agreement" on hijacking. Even before this broadcast was monitored in Washington, State Department spokesman

Charles W. Bray told newsmen, "We do have the impression now that there may now be a basis for reopening negotiations" on the issue.

Bray described the impression as based on unspecified "straws in the wind" as seen in previous actions and statements by Premier Fidel Castro's government following two recent hijackings of U.S. airliners to Cuba.

But the broadcast set off what officials said was "great excitement" among U.S. Cuban experts because the Castro government has not shown any previous willingness to negotiate the hijacking situation.

From the American viewpoint, the obstacle to past efforts to reach an accommodation on hijacking prevention was Havana's demand that the United States return Cubans who fled to this country.

In the Wednesday broadcast, Havana criticized past American policy concerning Cuban emigration and acts by anti-Castro elements based in the United States, but it did not repeat the demand for extradition of "illegal Cuban emigrants."

This omission was seen by some U.S. experts as indicating the seriousness of the Cuban proposal.

Airline Pilots ... Action Contemplated

WASHINGTON (AP) — With their lives menaced by hijackers and their command authority challenged by tactics of the FBI, the nation's airline pilots are contemplating a new worldwide protest suspension of air service.

Spokesmen for both the pilots and their airlines welcomed the prospect of negotiations between the United States and Cuba to curb hijacking, but the pilots expressed the view that only a worldwide strike would force all governments to crack down on air piracy.

"I don't think we have any alternative to another worldwide strike," said John J. O'Donnell, president of the Air Line Pilots Association.

The first such demonstration, a 24-hour shutdown last June 19, was only partially effective in the United States because the airlines obtained court orders against it.

This time, O'Donnell told a news conference Wednesday, the airlines have indicated through their industry organization, the Air Transport Association, that they might cooperate in an effective shutdown.

But Stuart G. Tipton, ATA president, denied that the industry had given any such assurance.

O'Donnell said the ALPA board would meet within less than two weeks to consider closing air commerce as a means of inducing governments to take stronger measures against hijacking—such as providing more money for security personnel and equipment, and guarantees of swift punishment for air pirates.

"If it was in my power alone, I would shut down America's air industry until such time as the proper guarantees for safety to passenger and crew were made by the federal government," O'Donnell said.

Earlier, in a letter to President Nixon, O'Donnell urged that the United States take the initiative in trying to negotiate an antihijack accord directly with the Cuban government, because Cuba has been the principal haven for American hijackers.

The FBI attempt to ground the hijacked jet after it landed at McCoy Field in Orlando, Fla., was criticized anew by Capt. Thomas M. Ashwood, chairman of ALPA's commission on flight security.

Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray brought the hijack victims close to disaster by authorizing agents to shoot out the plane's tires, Ashwood told the convention of The Associated Press Managing Editors in Kansas City.

The crippled DC9 barely lifted off the ground at the extreme end of the runway, said O'Donnell who joined in assailing the FBI action.

U. S. Proposes Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States was scheduled to introduce a resolution in the United Nations General Assembly today that would cut its assessment for the world organization's general budget nearly 20 per cent.

Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, a Democratic member of the U.S. delegation, was chosen by the Nixon administration to introduce the resolution in the Assembly's administrative and budgetary committee. The proposal, carrying out a directive from the U.S. Congress, specifies that no U.N. member shall contribute more than 25 per cent of the total ordinary expenses of the United Nations.

The U.S. assessment is now 31.52 per cent of the budget, or nearly $64 million this year. It is the largest contribution, more than twice the second-place Soviet Union's 14.18 per cent.

Chief U.S. Delegate George Bush in a statement Wednesday night indicated that the $12 million or more saved if the resolution is adopted would be diverted to other U.N. programs.

Bush said the 25 per cent ceiling would not apply to a voluntary U.S. contribution to U.N. economic and social development programs, which now total almost half a billion dollars. In the case of some funds it constitutes almost 80 per cent of the support.

"Our adjustment to the 25 per cent formula in no way proposes any diminution in the over-all commitment of resources to the United Nations system by the United States," Bush said.

He explained that the United States is not proposing a reduction in its assessment just "to save a few million dollars" but rather "as a matter of political equity and realism."

Jean Westwood ... 'Position Embattled'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Jean Westwood, the embattled chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is going to have a hard time keeping her job, a United Press International sampling of committee members indicated today.

With about three weeks left before the Dec. 9 showdown meeting of the national committee, 58 members from 30 states already have decided that Jean must go. Another 54 committee members declared themselves undecided, but a number of them indicated they would vote against Mrs. Westwood if a replacement could be found who would improve the prospects for party unity.

Only 24 committee members put themselves on record in favor of Mrs. Westwood, and even some of those were shaky.

The national committee members were polled by UPI bureaus across the country just a few days after the election in which President Nixon swamped Sen. George S. McGovern, the Democratic candidate, and at the first signs of what has become a growing "oust Westwood" movement among Democratic governors and members of Congress.

It was evident from the initial sampling that Mrs. Westwood, who has said she will fight for her job, does not start with a firm backing from the committee, which now has 278 members who cast 209 votes. Another 25 members, with one vote each, will be chosen at the Dec. 9 meeting to bring the committee up to full strength—303 members with 234 votes.

ELLENVILLE
The question of where the low rent housing project in Ellenville, to be sponsored by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, will be placed seems to be settled now, but it's not going where anyone thought it should.

The Ellenville Housing Authority thought it should go on Easton Court, and last spring recommended a bid for that site be approved by the New York office of HUD. The Ellenville Village Board and some Eaton Court area residents opposed the EHA, and the village board favored a site on Broadhead Street. The village board later backed a Chamber of Commerce proposal to rebid the project, with the senior citizen part of the project going to Eaton Court, from the old American Legion site and the low rent portion of the project going to the site the seniors had vacated.

The final say in the matter seems to have rested with HUD, and according to both EHA head Gordon Kent, and Ellenville Mayor Robert Dowling, HUD wants the low rent project on an Eastwood Avenue site, and said so at a Nov. 8 meeting with Ellenville officials.

The EHA and the village board held a closed meeting Tuesday night, and both Kent and Dowling say the site differences have been settled for the present. Dowling saying there was "no other alternative."

With the change in site goes a change in developer. The EHA had recommended a bid by the Radstock Corp. be accepted. The bid containing the Eastwood Avenue site was by Jobco Const. Co., a Long Island firm. Kent said the bid totalled about $1.7 million, about $100,000 less than the Radstock bid. Most of the extra $100,000 in the Radstock bid was for the purchase of the more expensive Eaton Court property.

The main reasons HUD gave for rejecting the Eaton Court site were the addition expense, Kent believed there were more than 15 people living in Eaton Court.

Dowling said the board had not formally accepted the Eastwood Avenue site, and would take no formal action on it until the EHA had made formal application to, and been accepted by, HUD. He said Wednesday, however, that he saw on major opposition to the site, at least on the part of the Republican majority of the board.

The Ellenville housing project will be financed by HUD, with the money HUD puts up being repaid out of the apartment rents. Low rent housing will receive 40 units, and 30 units will be for senior citizens. The senior citizens will still be located on the American Legion site, according to the HUD recommendation.

There are some problems with the Eastwood Avenue site, according to Kent. He said it was farther from the center of Ellenville, there were no sidewalks in the area, and the water and sewer lines to the site would probably have to be increased. However, both he and Dowling said HUD reasoned that the distance from the center of town was not a major disadvantage, and the sidewalks and water and sewer lines would have to be provided if a private party developed the property instead of HUD.

Dowling said an effort would be made to get the developer to absorb the sidewalk, water, and sewer costs. The mayor said it would amount to "a few thousand dollars," according to estimates he has heard. He thought the developer probably would be receptive. "We've been told all along this project would be at no cost to the village," said the mayor.

HUD is holding what amounts to a $1 million club over Ellenville's head. Dowling said the village had received a letter from HUD saying there would

KINGSTON
A public hearing on Ulster County's proposed $32.6 million 1973 budget has been set for Tuesday, Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. in the Legislative Chambers of the County Office Building.

The budget, presently, shows increases for department heads and legislative posts and includes a lump sum of $620,000 for increases in salaries of Civil Service employees.

The pay raises for the employees have not been spelled out as yet due to negotiations presently in progress between the county and the Civil Service Employees Association.

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Legislature, called it "a good budget" with "no fat in it."

There are a number of changes in the 1973 appropriations and revenues compared with the 1972 budget, which if passed will hopefully help the county cope with some of its social problems.

One of the changes is in the office of District Attorney Francis J. Vogt which is attempting to keep up with the increasingly huge workload in the criminal courts.

Vogt said that if the Legislature approves the 1973 appropriation, two part time positions on his staff filled by assistant district attorneys will become full time posts and the DA's office will be on its way to "becoming a top flight professional organization." Vogt said that neighboring Dutchess and Orange County employ full time assistants with a staff of ten in Dutchess.

Presently Ulster County has a district attorney, one full time assistant and five part time assistants. Under the new proposal, two of the five part time posts would become full time in addition to the one present full time position. The three remaining assistants would work part time in the Justice Courts of the county.

Vogt explained, to keep up with not only the increased number of criminal cases but the additional work required with the advent of more and more required hearings for felony offenders. "Crime work is increasing in both quantity and complexity," he said. In addition to felony work in County Court there is also Grand Jury and pre-trial hearings. As many as three such hearings are often required in felony cases with regard to such things as identification, confession and the seizing of physical evidence. Hearings can last several days, Vogt pointed out.

Also, there are 40 Justice Courts in the county with about 24 operating at least once a week in the evening. City Court requires the presence of an assistant district attorney every day and he or she spends from a couple of hours to all day.

'73 County Budget... Change for DA's Office

Vogt said that over the past couple of years he has found that he is competing with his assistant's private law practices in an effort to get them to spend more time on the work of the DA's office. "By and large, he added, I have no legitimate complaint however, because the as-stant's are in each and every instance more than earning the salary they get on a part time basis." He said that on the whole they spend proportionately more of their time on district attorney matters than on private practice. "In all fairness, I can't demand more of their time," he concluded.

Vogt said that until the budget is passed, he is not in a position to name anyone to the full time assistant district attorney posts at the present time.

Those presently on his staff include first assistant district attorney Joseph J. Traficanti, Ellen G. Donovan, Edward M. P. Green, Albert F. Hrdlicka, James L. Melbert and John T. Dall Vechia.

The total district attorney office budget appropriation for 1973 is $177,748. State revenue amounts to $10,000. The total budget increase over 1972 is $23,024.

Resnicks to Be Honored at Ellenville Testimonial Sunday

ELLENVILLE Louis and Harry Resnick will be honored at the Ellenville Community Hospital seventh annual dinner dance Sunday 6:30 p.m.

The $100 a couple fund raising event will be held at the Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen. The annual dinner dance is sponsored by the hospital board of directors to raise funds for hospital improvements.

Louis Resnick is being honored for his 16 years of service to the hospital as a director, vice president and chairman of various vital committees. Harry Resnick was selected for honor for his leadership in the fund raising drive which was responsible for the new hospital building and for his continuing efforts and support through the years.

Arthur C. Chipp is dinner chairman with Leo Rosick as co-chairman. Also serving on the committee are William H. Collier, Irving Esrig, Dr. A. Greenberg, William Lempka, Benjamin Lonstein, Harry Rieger, Dr. Manfred Schroeder and Louis Resnick.

Reservations are still available and may be obtained by contacting the dinner chairman or any member of the hospital board or by telephoning the hospital administrator, Evald Bors Koefoed.

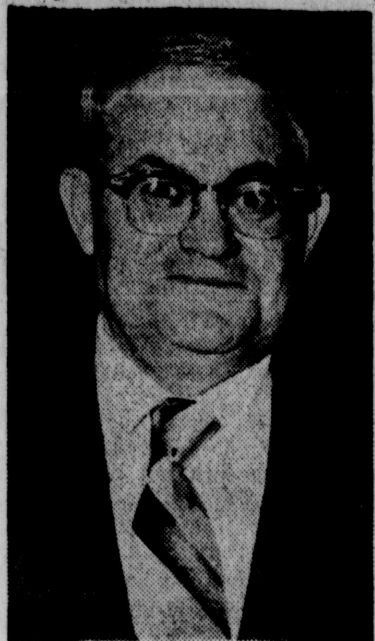

The co-chairmen noted that "We'd like to see widespread community support for this year's event because the needs of the hospital continuously grow. Ellenville Community Hospital has been a dependable source of pride and confidence to all residents of our area. It has earned the respect and praise of many part time visitors. In order to maintain the high standards of health care all of us would want for ourselves, our loved ones, and our friends and neighbors, the hospital must each year keep pace with modern technology. For this new life-saving diagnostic and therapeutic equipment, the hospital must depend on community support.

The annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Board of Directors provides the most pleasant of all ways to demonstrate support of this community institution."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 16, 1972

WASHINGTON — One of the biggest prizes seized during the Indian raid on government files was a memo written by Vice President Agnew to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton on behalf of a banking tycoon.

The banker, George Olmsted, wants to establish an American Indian National Bank which would have outlets on the major reservations. Agnew, before becoming Vice President, was a director of an Olmsted bank.

The story of Agnew's intervention to help Olmsted start an Indian banking operation has been dug out of the looted files by the angry Indians who occupied and then sacked the Bureau of Indian Affairs building. They escaped with thousands of government documents.

Among them are letters and memos showing that Olmsted approached the Vice President in 1970 about starting the Indians in the banking business. Olmsted offered not only to put up $1 million to launch the bank but also to train the Indians to run it themselves.

He agreed to hold the stock in escrow for the Indians until they could accumulate enough ownership as well. All Olmsted wants out of it is a modest management fee and a share of the profits for his banking combine.

The Vice President passed on the proposal to Morton in a memo dated August 6, 1970. "Attached," wrote Agnew, "is a letter from General George Olmsted, Chairman and President of the International Bank of Washington, wherein he sets forth a proposal for the creation of an American Indian National Bank.

"It would appear to me that this idea has considerable merit and that it would be desirable for an appropriate person in the Federal government to explore fully with General Olmsted this concept."

Agnew Conflict?

The Vice President added carefully: "In view of my previous business connections with General Olmsted's group, I do not feel it appropriate for me to become personally involved in this matter. However, I do feel it has sufficient merit to have full and complete consideration by the Federal government."

Despite Agnew's reservations about becoming "personally involved," his office has continued to press for the project within the federal establishment. The Bureau of Indian Affairs in response, has put together a task force of Indian leaders to form the bank.

At Olmsted's request, the Vice President is also preparing to ask the Office of Minority Business to help out the bank with a federal grant. But he refused another request from Olmsted to intervene with the Comptroller of the Currency to get a national charter for the bank.

Olmsted told us the proposed bank will bring financial benefits to low-income Indians who have been unable to borrow money in the past. It's part of his concept of banking for the "little people," he said. A spokesman for the Vice President stressed that the bank is precisely the sort of self-help that President Nixon has sought for the Indians. "We have done everything we could to assist this project," the spokesman said.

Agnew has taken the lead inside the Nixon Administration in seeking better housing for the Indians. He has also tried to establish a special council, free of the Justice Department's jurisdiction, who would fight for Indian legal rights.

Footnote: Other government documents, now in Indian hands, confirm our earlier columns that white exploiters have cheated the Indians out of their water rights in arid areas of the West.

Military Pollution

The Navy was selling restricted, mislabeled DDT on the pesticide market in Hawaii and the Army was washing dangerous poisons into the soil in California until the Environmental Protection Agency intervened.

In Hawaii, vacationing EPA Inspector Robert Kaneshiro and Hawaii state agriculture experts discovered the Navy was selling mislabeled, five-gallon pails of surplus DDT. They alerted EPA's regional office in San Francisco and the Navy sheepishly withdrew the highly restricted bug killer from the market.

Meanwhile, surplus chemicals from the wind-down of the Vietnam War were delivered at the Sierra Army Depot in California. Huge trucks brought in loads of DDT, diazinon, malathion, parathion and a hazardous inventory of industrial solvents and other poisons.

Asian officials reportedly refused to let the Army bury the pollutants anywhere in Asia and the Navy objected to dumping them at sea. So the Army brought vast numbers of drums of surplus poisons home in huge steel boxes. By the time they reached the Sierra depot, some containers were broken or leaking. DDT was sloshing around in trucks and poisonous crystalline deposits were caked at the breaks.

Although the depot is located on porous sand which drains directly into the water table, the Army washed some DDT from the containers into the desert. Some solvents were also buried. Again, the EPA intervened, notifying Army environmentalists who issued Sierra cease and desist orders.

At the depot, Col. Skisner Anderson, the commander, admitted to my associate Les Whitten that small quantities of DDT and a solvent had been discharged into the soil. But he denied that there was any large-scale pollution from the chemicals.

A Mood of Confidence

WASHINGTON — With a national election held just a week ago, Washington is calm, the executive branch of the government is getting ready to continue during the next four years the foreign and domestic policies that won the approval of the voters.

The President wants to make some administrative changes and to introduce new personnel in different departments. But so far as people generally are concerned, they do not foresee any shifts in governmental operations that could produce anxiety.

The atmosphere within the administration is satisfaction with what has occurred. A determination to improve the record may be expected, and the President will have an opportunity to work out with Congress his legislative proposals. He believes that spending can be held down and that no tax increases will be necessary. He hopes to curb inflation and give business an impetus which will enlarge revenues collected under existing rates.

Naturally, the politicians are talking about the results of the election. They argue about the meaning of the congressional contests, and some significant debates are looked for in the 93rd Congress. But the mood is one of confidence that there will be cooperation between the President and both Houses.

The American people, to be sure, voted against a change. They were afraid of the effects of a switch in policies — domestic and foreign. The desire was to maintain the existing administration for another four years because of a belief that the last four had worked out satisfactorily, even with a Congress in which the opposite party held control. But even as this statement is made and the word "control" is used, it must be conceded that, again and again, the President had the support of a majority in both Houses on important measures. It may well be assumed that the same thing will happen during at least the coming two years until congressional elections in 1974, when a new House and one third of the Senate is to be elected.

The politicians are talking about reorganizing their parties. Oddly enough, however, there isn't much complaint about the financing of the campaign. Spending on presidential, congressional and state and local contests is estimated to have been at least $400 million, as compared with the previous high mark of $300 million recorded in 1968.

What is more significant than the total cost of the campaign is how many individuals contributed. Lots of people gave small amounts — probably a greater number than in any previous election. The money was used for all sorts of expenses required for communication — television, radio, pamphleteering, advertising and rallies — including a good deal of prenomination spending.

There were, of course, some big donors, and their names presumably will be disclosed in the future. But the participation by citizens was extensive. Indeed, more money was contributed by more people than ever before.

The whole problem of financing political campaigns has been frequently debated. It has often been suggested that the government could supply the funds, but nobody has come forth with a practical method to do this. Also, candidates often have large resources of their own while other candidates have no such sums upon which to depend.

Financing by the public has been going on for many years. It has its disadvantages, because donors may expect some favor in return if they have problems involving governmental action. But unless it is desired to have only rich people running for office, there is no way by which campaign expenditures can be limited except by having the government supply all the money for the various candidates. The probabilities are there would be additional parties and many more aspirants to public office if the government were to foot the bill.

It may be said the presidential election came at a time when the people wanted no change because they felt policies in Washington were succeeding and that the best course for the voter was to uphold the incumbent administration. This has been the rule often in history. While there were defects in the strategy of the party that was defeated and criticisms are heard about how the campaign was directed by the loser, the fact remains that the President got an overwhelming victory.

Now that the election is over, the people generally seem to be satisfied with what happened. The mood is to look forward to January when the Congress meets and the administration embarks on a new term.

There were, of course, some big donors, and their names presumably will be disclosed in the future. But the participation by citizens was extensive. Indeed, more money was contributed by more people than ever before.

Wallace's Next Role

Alabama Governor George C. Wallace played a silent but decisive role in this year's election. His following of 1968 transferred almost in equal numerical numbers to the Nixon column. It helped make the Republican sweep of the South possible.

Wallace did not make any endorsement, but his silence was taken as tacit approval of President Nixon, and at least no encouragement for Senator McGovern.

Now, Wallace simply is not saying he'll run again for President in 1976, but he is not ruling anything out. In a few months, he expects to be able to move around the nation to consolidate the support given him in the Democratic primaries. Which is to say that he will assert his rights as the party's biggest vote-getter—he had carried Florida, Michigan and Maryland when he was shot down in Laurel, Md., May 16.

For the present, Wallace's role will be reshaping the Democratic party. He feels strongly that the future of the party lies in the hands of the average citizen. And that if the planks he suggested at the party's national convention had been accepted—on welfare, busing and law and order—the debacle would have been avoided, if not turned back.

Most significantly of Wallace's future is the announcement of his campaign manager, Charles Snider, that he had leased national headquarters in Montgomery and if Wallace runs again it will be as a Democrat. The third party effort is over. In this way, Wallace preserves his leverage and may be able to play a role as the architect of the post-McGovern party.

Women in Congress

So far as the electorate is concerned, Women's Lib did not score high in the election. There will be 14 women in Congress, the same number as are there now, no more. That is less than the record of 18 who served from 1961 to 1963.

The election retired the veteran woman legislator, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, after 32 years in Congress, 24 in the Senate, 8 in the House. She was the only elected woman senator. At 74, she was denied a fifth term, which would have ended at age 80.

Five women were elected to Congress for the first time, offsetting three who retired and two who were defeated. Of the five newly elected women members of the House, two are black, four of the five are under 40, four are Democrats, making the female party division become 12 Democrats and 2 Republicans. Only one, Marjorie Holt of Maryland, can be classified as a conservative.

The defeat of Mrs. Smith and the retirement of Elaine S. Edwards, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Allen J. Ellender, restored the Senate to an all male club. The only other woman candidate for Senator, Louise Leonard of West Virginia, lost in a heavily Democratic state, even though Nixon carried it, against veteran Senator Jennings Randolph.

In the nation as a whole, the number of women holding elective office increased slightly. The gains exceeded losses, but not very large gains, except in Texas. There an intense effort to find women to run for office boosted the membership in the state legislature.

WRITING POP SONGS—Grover

Cleveland High School in Ridgewood, Queens, New York has a full-credit music course in popular song writing. Estelle Levitt, who has written the lyrics of a number of record hits, advised them to "get the hook in early." She explained, "The hook is the part of the song that makes your ears spin." That's the secret, how about a song hit now?

MILLARD FILLMORE DEFEAT

— The Resurrected Whig Party's platform was to roll back prices to the level of the 1850s, when Millard Fillmore was president. To that end, they nominated the late President Fillmore again 120 years after his term ended, but had to concede defeat. They sported a popular platform, but had little exposure in this age of advertising, promotion and television.

Hanoi and a Truce... Food Cited

Ray Cromley Says

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Several Vietnamese contacts — all originally from the North — believe fear of a major food shortage is what drove Hanoi to seek a truce.

They see no signs North Vietnam is running short of arms or military supplies necessary for continuing the war, or that severe weapons shortages are likely in the foreseeable future.

These men hold the blockade responsible for Hanoi's food problems. By contrast, despite the mining of Hanoi's rivers and harbors and the persistent bombing of the North's transportation systems, arms, petroleum and other war supplies can be brought in by pipeline, plane, train and truck in amounts adequate to sustain the invasion of the South.

Food supply is a different matter. These Vietnamese analysts contend North Vietnam must bring in one million tons of grain foods in the next 12 months to survive at reasonable levels and keep discontent below unmanageable limits.

Russia, taking advantage of its new subsidized grain arrangements with the United States, will have no trouble bringing in this amount by ship if there is no blockade. For planes and trucks ducking constant bombing raids, the problem is insurmountable.

These Hanoi watchers do not believe Hanoi is short of food today. A major North Vietnamese crop has only recently been harvested. The pinch, they calculate, is likely beginning around March 1973. But to meet this deadline, arrangements must be made now or shortly, not in January or February.

One thing these Vietnamese emphasize is that the crisis above all others is a serious food shortage. The system depends on widespread obedience and a strict silencing of dissent. For national discipline to be effective, there must be at least a workable minimum of food supplies.

Now if these Vietnamese analysts are correct in their figuring, then time is on President Nixon's side in the current negotiations with North Vietnam. The longer a truce is delayed and the longer the blockade continues, the more pressing will be Hanoi's worries about the food supply next spring.

At the same time, March is far enough away so that Nixon's men, in continuing negotiations until a just agreement is reached, need not fear they're condemning North Vietnam's civilians to starvation or lighting the spark for a people's revolt against the small group which runs North Vietnam.

It is quite likely in fact, that if negotiations drag on for months, and an agreement is reached so late as to put the feeding of North Vietnam in jeopardy, President Nixon would rush grain ships to meet the crisis.

All reasonable men want a quick end to the war. But an even more important factor is that the pact be one which ensures, so far as possible, that this is a real end to the fighting, and not merely a fig leaf to disguise a truce which is not a truce and a peace that is a cover for renewed war. It must be a peace, too, which gives the South Vietnamese the choice of what government they want for themselves — or the war will have been fought in vain.

Dutchess County Solid Waste Department . . . 'Impact'

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK, N.Y. — The Dutchess County Board of Representatives' motion Monday in approving the creation of a County Department of Solid Waste Management will be felt strongly in the northwestern portion of the county.

Included in the plan are suggestions from the William E. Trautman Associates proposal for five landfill sites, coordinated through the county; the Beacon incinerator; a shredding facility; a portable crusher of large objects, set on a flat-bed truck; and two open-pit incinerators.

The total capital outlay is estimated to be about $7.5 million with an annual budget of about $1.8 million.

Part of that capital outlay, of course, would be a county payment to municipalities for the purchase or lease of their landfill sites. Towns are very jealous of their sites these days, and must invest a goodly number of dollars every year to satisfy the Department of Health.

There is also the matter of capital funds for equipment purchases and the new and used equipment already in use; some transfer would be necessary to satisfy the towns here.

The fact is, the Town of Rhinebeck has a landfill site that could reasonably be expected to serve the town for at least 20 more years under its present system of operation. It is considered one of the best in the area and has been eyed by its northern neighbor Red Hook as the basis for some cooperative effort for the past several years.

Red Hook has no town dump, to use the anachronistic reference still in vogue to those uninitiated in landfill jargon. Talks between the two towns on working out an agreement have been at impasse while everyone waited to find out what the County Board of Representatives was going to do.

The Trautman report, substantially adopted by the County Board, recommends that the Rhinebeck landfill site be one of those incorporated into the county system to serve this area.

Rhinebeck Town Supervisor William Allen, in speaking with The Freeman, indicated that the "majority of the town board" is in agreement with the concept of cooperation through the county.

"I won't say that everybody on the board favors this, though," he commented. Slightly more than one year ago, this very matter was the most explosive in the town election campaign, with Allen's cooperative stance given resounding backing at the polls with his reelection.

The nitty-gritty details will bear some working on, he explained. Once a commissioner has been appointed, the town officials can begin exploring just how the matter may be culminated to the benefit of everyone involved.

Some preliminary things to be taken into consideration he mentioned were that he felt the town was "not too eager to sell" the landfill site to the county, but might favor a lease arrangement.

Allen also said that town employees must be incorporated into the county framework at the site, and that just remuneration for present equipment and capital indebtedness must be considered.

Rhinebeck has just purchased a renovated bulldozer for $21,000 for use at the landfill site, as a case in point.

The supervisor also noted that the plan to incorporate with the county would probably work better than just a joint agreement with the Town of neighboring towns.

Red Hook because of the financial complexities. And one more item that impressed Allen was the idea of compacting the refuse to a much greater degree through the county plan, thereby extending a life of the landfill site for many years in all probability, even with a larger intake volume.

Whether or not the plan as outlined in the Trautman report is the one adopted also depends on the tractability of other a commissioner and one or two assistants.

The Town of Milan, sparsely populated, has a landfill site with a life expectancy beyond that of most of its residents and has shown little interest to this point in participating in a program that has little to offer all the residents of Milan.

The County Board of Representatives vote was 29-2 in favor of the creation of this new department, with an initial budget of $66,000 primarily for other a commissioner and one or two assistants.

Hyde Park Library Association ...Membership Drive Underway

A membership drive for the Hyde Park Free Library Association is underway, according to Donald Brunstetter, president of the board of trustees.

He appealed: "In order to improve our services we need money and people. Please help by joining . . ."

There are various categories of membership, including associate, junior, member, family, sustaining, patron and life.

Brunstetter suggested that everyone interested in joining the association go to the library on Main Street. He emphasized that membership in the association is not necessary to use the library and urged all Hyde Park residents to become regular users.

In addition to the usual services, books, periodicals, films, reference information, the Hyde Park Free Library sponsors several other projects.

The annual Spring Art Show provides an opportunity to the artists of the Hudson Valley to exhibit their work. Story hours, film programs, and a summer reading program are also held.

Among services the board of trustees would like to see expanded is the "Laundri-Lib," a small collection of paperback books placed in a laundromat on Route 9G. Volunteers are also needed to provide library service for shut-ins.

If your lottery ticket number corresponds with the one listed above, you can win one of the following cash prizes. The top prize of $50,000 will be awarded to the holder of the six-digit number on the ticket. All other prizes will be based on the digits on the same ticket. There will be nine second prizes of $5,000 each based on the last five digits; 90 third prizes of $500 each based on the last four digits and 900 fourth place prizes of $50 each based on the last three digits.

There are 10,000 prizes offered weekly for each series of one million 50-cent tickets sold. Drawings are held each Thursday.

Mrs. Linda Dye of the Four Winds Bungalow Colony, Briggs Highway, was found by a 13-year-old neighbor at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday as he lay face down in 27 inches of water in a rain-filled ditch directly behind his home, according to Ellenville State Police who investigated.

Neighbors attempted to revive the child until the arrival of the Ellenville First Aid Squad, which continued revival procedures and rushed him to the Ellenville Community Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to authorities, further investigation is pending the results of an autopsy to be conducted today.

Mrs. Dye rented a bungalow at the colony, owned by Arthur and Emma Blauvelt.

That loved us well and true, Ah, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you. You are not forgotten loved one Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore. As time goes by we miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place. Your Sons, VERNON, PAUL and GENE

Memoriam
In loving memory of John Suski, who passed away 1 year ago, November 16, 1971. Should you go first and I remain, to walk the road alone, I'll live in memories garden, dear, with happy days we've known.

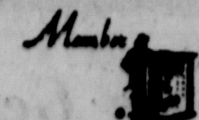

In spring I'll wait for roses red, when faded, the lilacs blue. In early fall when brown leaves fall, I'll catch a glimpse of you. Should you go first and I remain, for battles to be fought, Each thing you've touched along the way will be a hallowed spot. I'll hear your voice, I'll see your smile, tho blindly I may grope.

The memory of your helping hand will buoy me on with hope. Should you go first and I remain, one thing I'll have you do: Walk slowly down that long long path, for soon I'll follow you. I want to know each step you take, so I may take the same. For some day down that lonely road, you'll hear me call your name. Loving Wife, BEVERLY

Dr. Kline ... New Office

A new office location has been announced by Dr. David Kline, local optometrist. Having been located in mid-town Kingston for the past 23 years, Dr. Kline will now receive patients at his new office at 231 Clinton Avenue next to the YWCA.

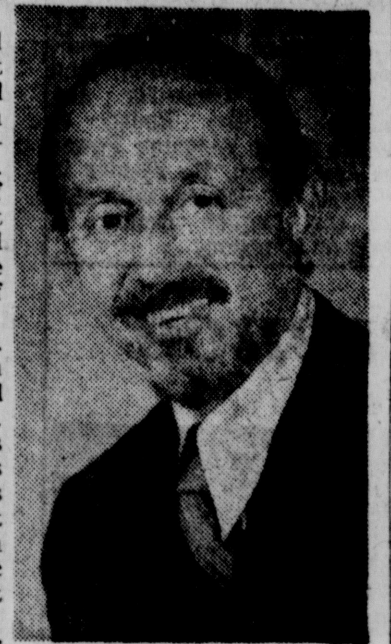

A native of Kingston, Dr. Kline was educated in local schools, attending the old Number 2 School and Kingston High. He obtained his B.S. and M.A. degrees from New York University, College of Arts and Sciences, University Heights.

A former teacher of social studies, Dr. Kline taught at Myron J. Michael School and Kingston High School for a period of 5 years, prior to entering military service in 1942. During his 3½ year tour of duty, he served as a Combat Infantryman with General Patton's 3rd Army in the European Theater of Operations.

Returning from service, Dr. Kline attended Columbia University where he received his degree in Optometry in 1949. He has also completed courses of study at Massachusetts School of Optometry for his Doctoral Degree, and post graduate courses at Indiana University and the Optometric Center of New York in Contact Lens Theory.

He opened his office for practice locally in 1949, maintaining an additional office in Highland for several years. Dr. Kline has served actively in local community service organizations and will be remembered as a 10-year member of the Kingston Board of Education (1955-1965). First appointed to the office by Mayor Frederick M. Stang, he was reelected in a district-wide election for a 5-year term. In 1963, he was elected president of the Board, serving in this capacity for two years. A member of the United Way

DR. DAVID KLINE

Board of Directors since its inception, Dr. Kline has also served as its president. He has also been past president of the Jewish Community Center and of B'nai B'rith. He is a 17-year member of the Lions Club, a member of the American Legion, of Wiltwyck Country Club and of Congregation Agudas Achim. Professionally, he is a member of the Hudson Valley Optometric Society, the New York State Optometric Association, and the American Association of Optometrists. He has also served as official prison optometrist for Eastern Rochester.

SNOWMOBILE SUITS

Whatever your cold weather activity, do it in comfort this winter in one of these warm suits. Smooth, unquilted nylon shell gives the maximum amount of cold weather protection. Its water repellent finish helps keep inner garments from getting damp—no chills for you! 6.6 oz. Dacron 88® polyester insulation and nylon lining are added protection against biting winds. Zip-off hood is insulated and nylon lined. Rayon-cotton bulky knit collar, wristlets and cuffs fit close to prevent loss of natural body heat. Jumbo, hip-high leg zippers make it easy to take your suit off or put it on—even over boots. Three big pockets all have handy snap flap closures. In navy or red, popular sizes.

Youth Ordered Held for Grand Jury

KINGSTON — Mathew P. Meeks, 18, of 92 Rondout Gardens, Kingston, was ordered held for Grand Jury action when he appeared in City Court Tuesday to answer to a first degree rape charge.

Meeks was arrested by Kingston police Nov. 8 on information furnished by a 15-year-old girl who alleged that he forced her to submit to sexual intercourse by threatening her with a club and knife in a parked car on Oct. 30.

City Court Judge Herbert A. Richter ordered Meeks confined in the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

WKNY Sets Radiothon For Fund

KINGSTON

Radio station WKNY, in cooperation with Kingston city police and city officials, will broadcast a 14-hour radiothon Saturday to solicit funds for the family of a Kingston police officer who died Aug. 30 after a long and expensive illness.

Beginning at 6 a. m. and continuing until 8 p. m., WKNY will put Mayor Francis R. Koenig and other city officials on the air along with fellow police officers of Patrolman Thomas J. Coffey, who left a wife and five children when he died.

At the same time children of police officers, the Kingston Young Marines, members of the Babe Ruth League, baseball team sponsored by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, and other youth groups will station themselves at Kingston intersections to solicit funds for the Thomas J. Coffey Memorial Fund. Officials said the goal is to raise "at least" $7,500 with about $1,500 going to pay off doctor and medical bills incurred by Coffey before his death and the remainder going into a trust fund for his five children.

During the radiothon persons wishing to contribute can make a pledge by calling 338-3483. Donors can make pledges and send a check to the fund later or cash donations will be picked up in cases where the donor is unable to leave home, officials said. Mayor Koenig and other city officials will man the pledge phone during the radiothon, officials said.

Police officers will be introduced on the air during programming hours to explain the purpose of the fund.

Labeled canisters have been placed in numerous public places in the Kingston area to receive contributions and will remain in place after the radiothon is completed.

Paltz Board Adopts Budget

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Town Board Wednesday night adopted its preliminary 1973 budget that is expected to cost taxpayers an extra $12-15 per cent of assessed valuation next year.

The amount to be raised by taxes totals $468,870, an increase of $102,000 over last year's total. The town expects an estimated $167,000 in revenues in 1973.

Commission Session

The Town of Esopus Environmental Conservation Commission will meet in regular session tonight at 7:30 at the Town Hall in Port Ewen. The meeting, which is open to the public, will include a documentary produced by Sleightsburg resident Tom Johnson on State Environmental Commissioner Henry Diamond's statewide bicycle ride in support of the Environmental Bond Issue.

VENEREAL DISEASE FOR INFORMATION CALL 338-8118

Michael Leopold

The Other Day

This one came from Jim Hines: After being ordered to explain why he was late for school, the mountain boy gave this explanation: "Ma woke up Pa in the middle of the night because she heard a noise in the hen house. Pa sleeps in the raw, but he grabbed his gun and went outside. He had it pointed toward the hen house waiting for something to happen, when our old hound dog came up behind Pa, with his cold nose, and we've been cleaning chickens since 3 o'clock this mornin'." We have a very warm heart for serving you!

TURN A BACKBREAKING JOB INTO A "NO-STRAIN" FUN JOB

- Powerful 5 H.P. Briggs & Stratton WINTERIZED ENGINE
- Heavy duty skids for use on uneven ground, with SURE-GRIP TIRES.
- Exclusive contoured chute rotates in a 220 degree arc. Direction control on handle.

POWERFUL 5 HP

CLEAR YOUR WALK AND DRIVE IN MINUTES! MOVES ALMOST A TON OF SNOW IN 90 SECONDS!

Here's a powerful, dependable snowthrower that chews its way through the deepest drifts with ease! Turns a back-breaking chore into a no-strain "fun-job" that clears your walk and drive in minutes. Winterized engine, starts fast at below zero temperatures; maneuvers easily even in wet heavy snow; moves almost a ton of snow in about 90 seconds... while adjustable non-clogging chute puts it where you want it... up to 25 feet away. Designed for safety and top performance. POLORON gives you more "more-for-your-money" features than any other Snowthrower!

- Clears a 20" wide x 14" high path.
- Forward, neutral and reverse chain drive.
- Finger-tip shifting on handle.
- Completely winterized for "artic" weather.

Door-to-Door Salesman Protection

An Escape Hatch for Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a growing number of buyers with low resistance to tenacious door-to-door salesmen, there's a new way to get out of those bargains that turn out to be blunders.

The escape hatch is a cooling-off period—usually from two to five days—during which buyers with second thoughts can cancel sales contracts or purchases made in haste or exasperation.

It could have helped, for example, the 17-year-old girl in New York State who signed an installment contract for a set of glasses. Total price: $1,800.

Another who could have used a cooling-off period was the woman who signed a $600 contract for a new roof. She checked with local contractors later and found they would have done the job for $250.

Both instances turned up during Federal Trade Commission hearings.

Pennsylvania's Bureau of Consumer Protection discovered cases of illiterate persons who had been pressured into buying encyclopedias and others who bought carpet sweepers though they had no carpets.

Now millions of consumers may revoke contracts they've signed for no other reason than, "I've changed my mind."

Cooling-off periods for door-to-door sales were in effect at last count in 33 states, seven cities and the District of Columbia. By comparison, 14 states had such grace periods two years ago.

Now the FTC has offered a cooling-off period proposal as a model for state standards. The FTC plans to invoke its proposal nationwide with the force of law if it can dispose of pending court challenges to its power to issue trade regulation rules.

The FTC proposal gives buyers three business days to change their minds on purchases with a total price of $25 or more.

Some door-to-door companies have voluntarily provided buyers with an escape clause. Encyclopaedia Britannica, for example, says it uses a four-day cooling-off period. Avon Products said it offers customers an unconditional money-back guarantee.

Cooling-off laws vary from state to state, but the FTC model applies to every sale made outside the seller's place of business. The proposal excludes sales where the buyer has initiated a contact in order to get repairs on items such as television sets. But the exclusion cannot be used in some cases, such as repairs to a home or driveway.

FUND RAISER — The annual fund drive of the Glenford Engine Company came to a successful conclusion recently. Discussing final tallies are Joseph Beyer (L), committee chairman; Ted Bosson, lieutenant; Millard Rowe, chairman of the board of fire commissioners; Clifford Norton, captain and Robert A. Carle, chief of the West Hurley Fire Department. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

New Paltz . . . Board Approved

NEW PALTZ The New Paltz Board of Education, at its regular meeting Wednesday night, approved the formation of an Educational Planning Board that will be responsible for the development of new curriculum guidelines for the district.

The Educational Planning Board, according to school board clerk Frank Hamilton, will consist of six teachers and four administrators. The six teachers will be given one-half day off each month to attend the meetings of the Planning Board.

Wednesday's school board meeting also included the reinstatement of physical education teacher Russell Williams, who was suspended Aug. 21. The reasons for Russell's suspension and reinstatement, according to Hamilton, "are not a matter of public record."

Williams will receive all back pay that had been withheld since his suspension. The reinstatement is effective immediately. He teaches physical education at the Middle School and Duane School.

In other matters, it was noted that the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges is continuing its evaluation of the New Paltz school district; teachers will be given one-half day off on Wednesday before Thanksgiving; tenure was granted to teachers Noreen Rothman and Janet Vankleeck.

Crime Busters

ROME (UPI) — Tens of thousands of policemen set up roadblocks and searched suspects in a six-hour nationwide crime-busting operation Tuesday, the Interior Ministry said today.

It said police checked the identities of 372,896 persons and registrations of 226,597 cars, arrested 405 persons on various charges and filed charges against another 1,942.

They seized four submachine guns, 136 rifles, 71 pistols, 17 hand grenades and 6,000 rounds of ammunition, recovered $74,000 worth of stolen goods and handed out 48,292 traffic tickets.

Hurley Pack Party, Awards

A Halloween Party was the feature of the October meeting of Pack 103 held at the St. Joseph's Mission Hall in Hurley with many strange-looking characters from gruesome ghosts to sweet, old grandmothers attending. The Cub Scouts paraded in their costumes and a bag mask contest was held. Prizes for the best masks — cleverly created by the boys out of brown shopping bags — went to Daniel Whispell, first; Joe Hill, second and Greg Herd, third.

Cuba Michael Rossi and Kevin McSpirl, graduated into Boy Scouting and were welcomed by Scoutmaster Dick Ruth. Roger Dinsmore and Robert Galon were transferred into the Webelos Den.

Cubmaster Robert Fiore, appropriately dressed as an Indian Chief, presented awards to the following Cubs: Jeff Cole, Danny Gibbons, Steven Hakim and Lance Holmquist. Dinner bars were given to Peter Antonovich and Steven Hakim. Assistant dinner bars went to Danny Gibbons and Jim Meurs. Webelos awards were earned by Tom Amato, John McConnell and Michael Rossi.

Some 26 new Bobcats, representing a 75 per cent membership increase, were inducted at a unique ceremony. They were Adam Antonovich, Kevin Baker, Michael Bohan, Daniel Caragher, George Dahr, Robert Darling, Peter Deising, Paul Fiore, Chris Gibbons, Guy Grimaldi, Robert Grubick, Paul Hakim, Greg Herd, Patrick Hickey, Joe Hill, Wayne Johnston, Larry Jordan, Don Lovy, Joseph Long, Roy Mayone, Duane Marshall, Steven Rossi, James Schlottbauer, Benjamin Sottile, Eugene Sottile, William Thompson, Daniel Twedell and Daniel Whispell.

Three new Den Mothers, Mrs. Jack Jordan, Mrs. James Schlottbauer and Mrs. Richard Whispell, were also introduced. Refreshments of donuts and cider were enjoyed.

Cub Pow Wow In Saugerties

Approximately 100 enthusiastic Cub Scout leaders attended the annual Pow Wow conference Nov. 4 at the Atonement Lutheran Church in Saugerties. The day-long program was put on for the Cub leaders of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, a member agency of the United Way.

Under the chairmanship of Richard Ogden and Irwin Tate as coordinator, such topics as Pack administration, crafts, a den chief conference, games and Webelos leader training were presented with the help of a highly qualified staff. The crafts session under the direction of Sonia M. Scherry, Hilda and Schultz, Marie Rhodes and Norma Dapp, included instruction to den leaders on different ideas of what crafts a young boy from eight to 10 can make. Ron Lutz and Stumpy Tremper led the Webelos and game session while Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnett and Ted Blakman worked with pack administration.

The session was well attended, drawing Cub leaders from Ellenville, Kingston, Woodstock, Highland, Catskill, West Hurley and many other areas. Milk was donated for those who attended by the Silver Lake Dairies.

Brownie Troop Makes Favors

Brownie Troop 17 of the Chambers School, led by Mrs. Stephen Markos, started their new term off actively. At their first meeting after the 22 girls welcomed each other, they were taught the flag ceremony by Mrs. Jay Kitzner.

The next meeting was spent making and filling 200 tray favors for the retarded children at the Waselec Home.

The following week the troop was taken to Thriview Farms — Boice Brothers Dairies by their leader and assisted by Mrs. Jay Kitzner, Mrs. Roy Olsen, Mrs. Gary Bares and Mrs. Stephen Maldi. Mrs. Boice personally escorted the Brownies on a tour of the barn, explaining the dairy process and surprised the girls with a hay ride.

All the guests were treated to a drink of Boice Brothers chocolate milk and thoroughly enjoyed their visit. Many thanks were extended to Mrs. Boice for her grand hospitality.

Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday 9:30 a.m., followed by a Kiddush. Services are conducted by Dr. Harry Z. Scheetman assisted in the liturgy by Cantor Mordchai Edry.

This Friday the Bas Mitzvah of Amy Lipton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lipton, will be celebrated. The Bas Mitzvah will conduct the services as well as the chanting of the prophetic reading of the week. She will receive the religious gifts from the Sisterhood, the Talmud Torah and the USY. The Bas Mitzvah Certificate from the congregation, and her religious lesson from the rabbi. The Oneg Shabbat will be given by the parents of the Bas Mitzvah in her honor. The parents of the Bas Mitzvah wish to invite everyone to the services and to the Oneg Shabbat.

The Mourners' Prayer will be offered for the following whose yahrzeit will be observed in the coming week: Mollie Black, Anna Friedman, Harry Greenbaum, Mary Shuster Kusiner, Anna Rainbeau, Anna Ritter, Miriam Rosenberg and Moses Treinkman.

Reservations are being taken for the Thanksgiving Ball which will take place Saturday night, Nov. 18.

Members of the USY will be at an inter-city this weekend.

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue will conduct Shabbat services according to the following schedule: Mincha and Kabbalat Shabbat 4:30 p.m.; Shabbat services 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Rabbi Howard Gershon will officiate. Shabbat candles will be lit at 4:18 p.m. Services are conducted daily 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Sunday services 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Following Shabbat services Rabbi and Mrs. Howard Gershon will host a kiddush in honor of the birth of their daughter Esther Shayna.

Temple Emanuel

Sabbath evening services will be held at Temple Emanuel, 443 Albany Avenue, Friday 7:30 p.m., conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn assisted by Cantor John Park. Rabbi Eichhorn will speak on The Lord Was Here and I Knew Not, based on the Torah portion for the evening.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Harry Hyman, Aaron Katz, Minnie Goldberg, Harriet Kingsberg, Hyman Karu, Leone Gross, Tillie Vogel, Betty Klein, and others.

After services Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood.

Rabbi Eichhorn will meet with confirmation parents Saturday 10 a.m. Basic Judaism Class will meet Saturday 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Temple Youth Group will hold a Conclavette Saturday and Sunday. All Temple High School students will participate.

Adult study group in Contemporary Jewish Thought will meet Tuesday 8 p.m.

Rules Listed For Rondout School Events

KYSERKE
 Beginning with the varsity basketball season, and continuing for all night activities to be held at Rondout Valley High School from that point on, all youngsters below grade nine are expected to be accompanied by a parent or an adult.

This action is occasioned by the increasing number of pre-high schoolers who attend evening functions at the high school which are open to the public. For the safety of the young people, and for the comfort and convenience of all, the high school feels that they should have proper adult supervision and proper transportation to and from events, especially nighttime activities.

Rondout Valley High School by no means discourages these youngsters from attending high school functions, but feels it is in their best interests, as well as the best interests of high schoolers and adults, that they be so supervised.

Bargain Boutique

A two-day bargain Christmas Boutique Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 18 and 19, at Mount Saint Mary's Gym, Powell Avenue, Newburgh. The boutique will be open between 1 and 5 p.m. both days. It is for the benefit of the Reized and Infirmary Sisters of the Newburgh Dominican community for the renovation and modernization of infirmary facilities.

A Prisoner's Plea:

Help Parolees Go Straight

Editor's Note: The writer is long-term prisoner in the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City. His article is taken, with permission, from The Kansas City Magazine published by the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

By J. J. Maloney
Distributed by United Press International

The most common cliché heard in prison is that "$25 will buy a shotgun."

What this means, simply, is that a man leaving prison is given a suit of clothing and $25. He can't live for more than a few days on that amount—certainly not long enough to receive a paycheck (even if he had a job)—but that he can hurry up, buy a shotgun, make a score, and then try to make it long enough to get a job and draw a paycheck.

Except for one thing—once he makes that first score he loses interest in working for a living.

This is why I seldom make any comment when a man tells me he is going to straighten up when he gets out. I have heard literally thousands of men say that same thing, and I have seen thousands of them return shaking their heads. If asked what happened they will generally tell you they couldn't get a job—or that they started stealing within 72 hours of their release because they couldn't make that $25 stretch. Of course, there are those who never intended to do anything but steal, but for the moment we're concerned with that sizeable percentage who actually DID intend to try to straighten up, and failed.

As you read this article you can choose to feel that this problem is remote from you. You can do that if you are a fool. Because, the ex-convict does not suffer alone in his failure—you suffer with him.

As a businessman you are the prime target of that man with the shotgun. If he chooses shoplifting he will come to your store. If he chooses burglary he will go where the money is—businesses. And if he misses you and gets the next guy, you will still pay because of inflated insurance rates.

You can't get away from it—as a businessman the problem of unemployed ex-convicts is your problem.

How big is the problem?

Approximately 20 per cent of the prisoners in Missouri are from the Kansas City metropolitan area. This amounts to something like 650 prisoners at any given time. About 375 of these will return to Kansas City each year. The recidivism rate is 60 per cent—so 225 of these ex-inmates will return to prison each year.

Let's say that half of these men wanted to go straight, but couldn't. This means that 100 ex-convicts committed new crimes (some of them committing MANY new crimes before being caught) because of a simple lack of work opportunity, or because they couldn't survive until that first paycheck.

I won't deny that a man with initiative, imagination, determination, can and will make it when released from prison. I don't doubt that I could go to the robbery squad of the Kansas City Police Department and tell them, "All right, I want to go straight. But I can't find a job. Will you help me or do I HAVE to steal?"

There's not a doubt in my mind but that those cops would find me a job. But the average guy getting out of prison isn't about to present himself to the police—if anything, he feels slightly paranoid every time he SEES a cop. Secondly, that procedure would work occasionally, but soon the police would have to give it up because they have a job to do that doesn't include employment counseling.

No, the average guy getting out of prison is just that, an average guy. He will go to the routine places for help—specifically, the state employment office. And he will answer help wanted ads—in abundance.

He will learn, quickly, that people are highly suspicious of ex-convicts. That employers tend to pass them over in favor of someone less exotic and of more proven reliability.

I once spent a week answering want ads—almost 100 of them—and in desperation I went to the St. Louis Police Department to see several detectives who had arrested me once. They weren't in. I left, and feeling that finding a job was impossible, I pulled a rash of house burglaries that weekend. That was only a few months before I killed a businessman during an armed robbery. Would a job have made a difference? Maybe.

A Solution

So, what can be done about the problem? At present there is no functional program for post-release assistance to prisoners in general. In case of parole, a man must have employment and a home guaranteed before he is released. But he must find that home and job on his own, with such assistance as family and friends can provide.

The Missouri Jaycees have a program called "New Life," the purpose of which is to provide homes and jobs for inmate Jaycees. But no more than ten per cent of inmates are Jaycees, and since the program is just getting started it is too soon to say that it is or isn't a solid program.

Frankly, this problem is hard and realistic look at their virgin territory. What is needed is a program that will bring prospective employees into the prisons BEFORE a man is released—so that when he is released he has some sort of solid foundation on which to build.

A second thing he needs is credit. With guaranteed employment, it would be possible for clothing stores to extend sufficient credit for the man to put together a basic wardrobe. Restaurants could provide credit until he can start collecting paychecks. A roster of approved rooming houses could extend credit. Sure, he's going into debt at the outset—but these are the basic things the newly released prisoner MUST have, that ANY man must have in order to survive.

Secondly, by extending credit, the man is allowed to retain his pride—he is receiving help, true, but in a businesslike manner that permits him to pay his own way.

But before any real progress can be made in reducing recidivism, potential employers are going to have to take a hard and realistic look at their hiring practices. They're going to have to learn how to gamble—because if they refuse to take a chance then we can rest assured that the recidivism rate will continue at 60 per cent, and those 110 ex-convicts will return each year and feel forced to steal even though they don't want to.

The man in prison could be an asset—but he may need training. Why can't some of the unions get together with some of the larger companies, and provide training in some of the skills that are most in demand? With the continuing scarcity of salesmen, why not set up a training program in that area? These programs could be coordinated with the Department of Corrections—some of them could even be conducted IN prison, before a man is released.

The solutions are there—not to the whole problem, but to a significant part of it, and that's all that can be asked at one time.

The alternative is a $25 shotgun in the hands of a hungry man.

PLAYING AT ST. MARY'S — Shown are Charles Lee and Band, who will be playing at the fall dance of St. Mary's Parish in Kingston, in the school hall, Nov. 25. They will be providing music from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Reservations may be made with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings.

Ulster Businessmen . . . Make Case Public

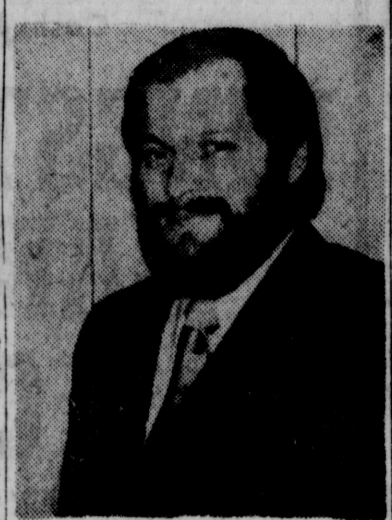

ULSTER SHOP CITY — After five years of intensive but as yet fruitless effort to obtain highway improvements to ease traffic congestion for their customers along Ulster Avenue Mall, the Ulster Businessmen's Association has decided to take their case to the public.

Ulster Avenue Mall — so designated by Ulster Town Board action in 1971 — embraces two miles of state highway formerly known as Albany Avenue Extension and Route 9W North from the Kingston city line to the Route 199-209 cloverleaf. It contains over 200 businesses including such large department stores as Caldor, Mammoth Mart, Wallace's and Ward's.

Explaining the position officially adopted by the Association's Board of Directors, President Joe Cornelske said:

"Ulster Shop City is Ulster County's largest single retail shopping area, offering the most complete selection of merchandise, the greatest number of competing retail outlets, plenty of free parking at all stores, and easy access from everywhere.

Department of Transportation. County-wide support for the improvement came as far back as 1967 when the Board of Supervisors (predecessor to the Ulster County Legislature) adopted by a 33 to 0 vote a resolution sponsored by Addison D. Jones, then a supervisor from Kingston's old Second Ward, and Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, then supervisor of the Town of Ulster.

JOSEPH CORNELSKE

The state reportedly has had a set of plans for the improvement for a number of years.

"Everyone seems to agree that the improvement is needed, but we have encountered one delay after another, with other projects receiving priority," Cornelske said. "Meanwhile the area continues to add new businesses, attracting new customers and adding to the pressing need to improve traffic flow," he said, "if the large economic tax base of Ulster Shop City is to be served and preserved."

Most recent disappointment, Cornelske revealed, was word from the head of the State Department of Transportation that first priority in the Kingston area remains the North-South Arterial and that many projects are being delayed due to lack of funds.

This information came in response to a letter from Jones, who remains actively interested in the project, to Raymond T. Schuler, Department of Transportation Commissioner, requesting a meeting. Commissioner Schuler's reply, dated Oct. 20, stated:

"I am, of course, personally aware of the difficult traffic conditions on the Albany Avenue extension. As you know, since the disappointing failure of the bond issue last November, we have had to face painful curtailments of many necessary improvements throughout the state. What little money is available is being spent on the interstate program and on TOPICS projects, and other similar programs which preserve and maintain our existing transportation system. Many projects with similar or greater urgency than the Albany Avenue extension have had to be postponed.

"I don't want to promise you something that I cannot deliver and the current fiscal situation makes it impossible to forecast when funds would be available for this project. I can say that I fully concur in the need for improvements of this type and if sufficient resources are made available, we will accomplish much more of the urgent needs in Kingston and elsewhere that we have been forced to delay. Our first priority in Kingston remains the North-South Arterial, which we believe will provide major relief for Albany Avenue and the City of Kingston. With this in mind I don't believe that a meeting at this time would serve a useful purpose."

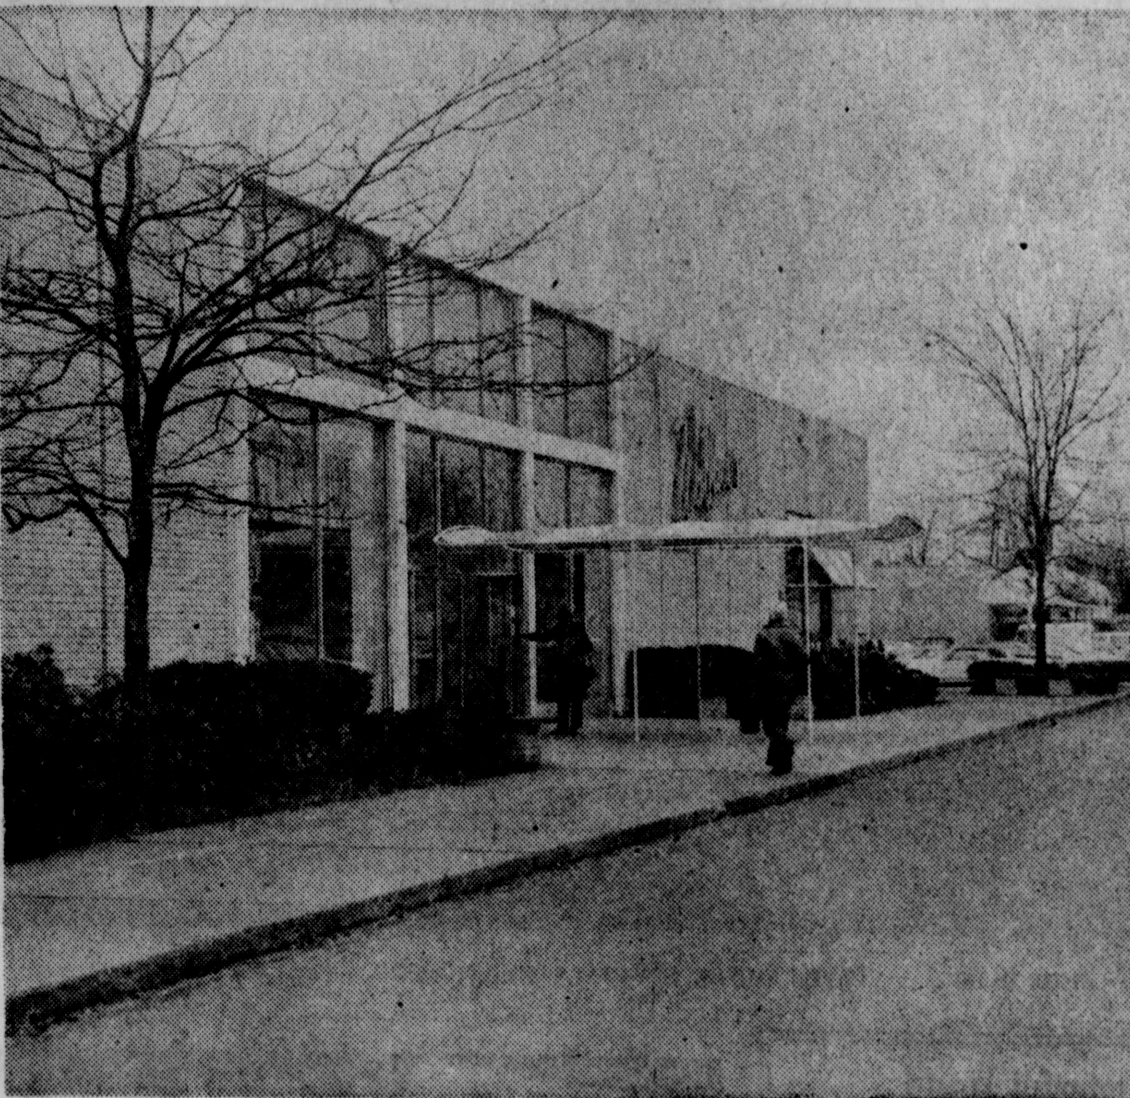

Jones, Cornelske and other businessmen question whether the Arterial will, in fact, provide any significant relief to Ulster Avenue Mall. Guest speaker at the October meeting of the Association, Jones pointed out that the primary purpose of the Arterial is to speed through traffic between areas north of Kingston and those south of Kingston. At present, however, most people living south of the Town of Esopus and wishing to travel to anywhere north of the Town of Ulster use the Thruway.

An origin-destination survey conducted by the Town Board of Ulster disclosed that by far the greatest portion of traffic on what is now Ulster Avenue Mall was not north-south traffic, but motorists headed toward Ulster Shop City or the City of Kingston from the west, north and east via the Route 199-209 cloverleaf at Caldor's.

Actively spearheading the Ulster Businessmen's efforts in the area of highway improvement in the Town of Ulster for several years has been a committee of Bernie Singer, chairman; Louis Gruberg and Louis A. DiDonna.

Cornelske emphasized that the Ulster Businessmen's proposal has no connection with another proposal that would widen Albany Avenue within the City of Kingston from the General Sharpe Cemetery to Foxhall Avenue. This latter proposal drew protests from persons wishing to preserve the trees lining both sides of Albany Avenue.

"As an Association we have not involved ourselves with that proposal, as it concerns only a street within the City of Kingston and is outside the territorial limits of our organization. Further, the critical traffic congestion occurs north of the Foxhall Avenue intersection and not in the tree-lined section of Albany Avenue," he said.

Historic Season Nears

ULSTER SHOP CITY
Ulster Shop City merchants are ready for what will undoubtedly be their biggest pre-Christmas shopping season in history.

The retail complex in the Town of Ulster, which has grown steadily since the coming of IBM in 1954, experienced an unusually rapid spurt of expansion during the past year as a whole new shopping center — Mammoth Mart — opened on the former Reade's 9W Drive-In Theatre property, the huge new Miron Home Center began business just north of the Route 199-209 cloverleaf, and a number of other new retail outlets sprung up throughout the area.

"This year, more than ever before, the area offers more to the customer," according to Joe Cornelske, president of the Ulster Businessmen's Association, Inc.

The two-mile business strip contains four large department stores as well as literally hundreds of competing variety and specialty shops, several major food chains, automobile dealerships and many service industries.

Taken together, the more than 200 businesses concentrated in the area offer the widest selection of merchandise possible, and the competitive factor assures the consumer of reasonable prices and good service, Cornelske said.

Ulster Deli Opening Set

ULSTER PLAZA
A new eating place to be known as Ulster Deli is expected to open late this month in the former Sippy's location at Ulster Shopping Plaza.

The Plaza, located on Ulster Avenue Mall within the Ulster Shop City complex, has recently re-organized its Ulster Plaza Merchants Association and is currently conducting a promotion which will culminate Saturday with the awarding of a free turkey at each of the stores. Mrs. James Ellithorpe of the Book Center is serving as chairman of the Association.

Wish Granted

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A man shook hands with Prime Minister William McMahon at a political rally Wednesday and said: "Mr. McMahon, I want to be arrested."

Police complied with the request.

Within 10 minutes, police said, John D. Robertson, 21, was charged with failure to register for the draft. Authorities said a warrant for his arrest was on file.

Shandaken Council Hears Address

ALLABEN A series of environmental showings will be announced. Edward G. West of Allaben told a recent meeting of the Shandaken Environmental Conservation Council that access roads are needed in many places for state-owned lands of the Catskill Forest Preserve.

West, a council member and a retired former employee of the Land Acquisitions Section of the Conservation Department, said that although the state owns abundant lands in the Preserve, additional purchases are needed to furnish access to them. He also noted that former efforts at industrialization of the Preserve such as fur trapping, lumbering and quarrying had left behind much damaged land but that the areas were reforested now and should be protected against short-sighted speculators.

Garden Club News Includes Reports

The annual luncheon and meeting of the Little Gardens Club of Kingston was held on Thursday, Nov. 9 in Judie's Restaurant, Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Mrs. Ervin Etchells presented the annual treasurer's report and the secretary, Mrs. Richard Becker, gave her annual report emphasizing the highlights. The theme for the year was "A Garden is the Need for Intimate Contact with the Earth and Growing Things" and the program committee planned its work with this in mind. Members presented several of the programs and two special speakers were enjoyed.

In April Miss Patricia Sande, Contest Winner 4H State and National Horticulture Association, presented a program entitled "Information and Identification." In September Mrs. A. K. Smiley Jr. showed slides and spoke on "Conservation for Life." On May 24th the members of the club enjoyed a trip to Capriland, Conn. to visit an Herb Garden Farm.

The special projects for the year were the beautification of the Hurley Library grounds, observance of Arbor Day with the planting of a dogwood tree on the Library grounds in memory of Miss Ruth Waterbury; making corsages for the residents at The Home for the Aged in Kingston for their Annual Tea in June, and making flower arrangements for Hurley Stone House Day and for the D.A.R. House.

The Ways and Means Committee sponsored a dried arrangement workshop and the highlight of the year was "A Country Affair" presented by the members at the Hurley Reformed Church on October 19 which was a social and financial success.

Four new members joined the club during the year: Mrs. Robert Kohli, Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. George Klitter and Mrs. Jack Lupton.

The officers for 1973 were installed: President, Mrs. Everett Landers; Vice President, Mrs. James Shelhorse; secretary, Mrs. Clifford Henze; treasurer, Mrs. Ervin Etchells. The president, Mrs. Landers, will complete appointing her committees shortly so they may be included in the 1973 program.

HOLIDAYS AROUND THE WORLD — A program of colorful songs, dance and music will be performed Friday, Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kingston High School auditorium. It is co-sponsored by the American Association of University Women and the Junior League of Kingston and presented by Performing Arts Foundation Inc. and International House, New York City. The young artists include Jose Coronado, Mexico; Linda Cuneo, USA; Mal Pate, Wales; Sun-Ock-Lee, Korea; Paramjit Chawa, India; Sumiko Murashima, Japan; Richard Ornellas, Hawaii; Chin Valez, Philippine Islands; Ronnie Alujandro, Philippine Islands; Pier Parreau, Haiti; Mattiz Romana, Spain; and Lee Harper, USA. Tickets are available from either of the sponsoring organizations by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and check to "Holidays Around the World," Box T, Hurley, New York 12443, or at the door the night of the performance. Adult admission is $3 and children $2. On the program will be this Voodoo Incantation with statue and snake. (International House)

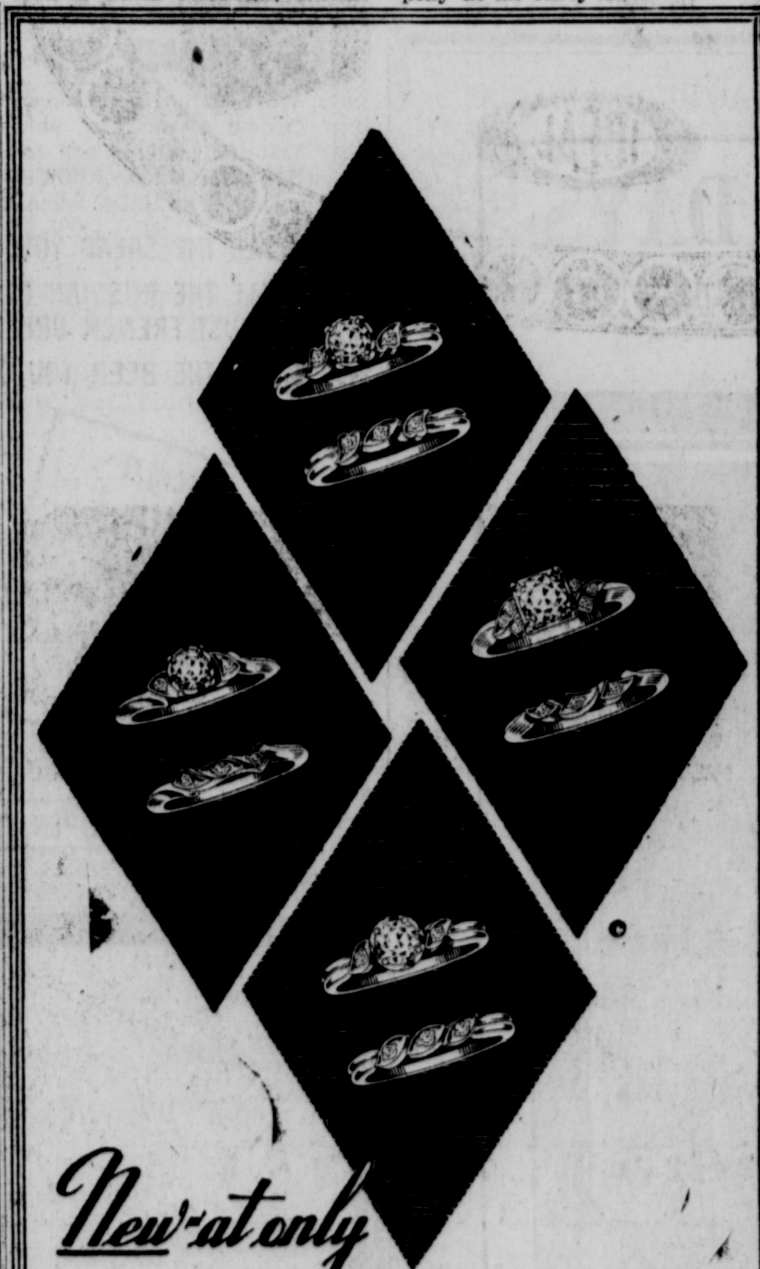

PAW Lists Reading Friday

The reading of Howard Koch's original play, "Dead Letters," scheduled by Performing Arts of Woodstock for Friday has been temporarily postponed.

PAW won the regional competition at Marist College last weekend and will now enter the statewide competition sponsored by the New York State Theatre Festival Association. Scheduled for

Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Cortland, PAW will present its award-winning one act play, "Night," by New York Playwright, Leonard Melfi. Appearing in the production will be Julia Callahan, Wende Sherman, Frank Alexander, David Boyle and George Kiernan. Robert Burgos will direct. PAW looks forward to the reading of Howard Koch's play at an early date.

Columbiette Program Noted

Saugerties Columbiettes will be entertained by the Knights of Columbus at the December 13 meeting which will be held in conjunction with their annual supper and the arrival of Santa Claus.

Members are reminded to bring a gift for exchange and a cash donation to be given to the Cerebral Palsy children at Christmas.

K of C members are making up food baskets for needy families. Those who can contribute canned goods for his project should bring them to the December meeting. Marie Cullen is chairman of the fruit cake sale. Cakes will be on sale at the meeting. A gingerbread house made by Elfrieda Geskie will be awarded at the Christmas party. The meeting will start promptly at 7 p.m.

A schedule is being set up on a four week basis to provide transportation for Cerebral Palsy children to the Rehabilitation Center in Kingston. Drivers are needed. Members who wish to participate in this worthwhile project should contact Betty Wehr, president. Plans have been finalized for the spaghetti and meatball supper to be held Sunday, Jan. 28, 1973, at the Council home. Invitations are open to Columbiettes, Knights and their guests. The menu includes spaghetti, meatballs salad, Italian bread, and beverages. There will be three servings, 5-6 and 7 p.m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Arthur (Carol) Chiaret, chairman. Tickets will be on sale at the meeting. Gerry Ruddy, chairman of the transcription program for the blind, announced that the Woman's Club of Saugerties will do large type, illustrations, and proof reading for this project. Saugerties Columbiettes will host the Hudson Valley Chapter on Saturday, Feb. 24, 1973 at the K of C hall.

Casting Call Made

A potpourri of actors, singers, dancers and piano players are summoned to Deanie's Restaurant, upstairs, in Woodstock for open tryouts on Monday, Nov. 20, from 8 to 10 p.m. On Tuesday, Nov. 21, casting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Lutheran Church Fellowship Hall, four doors up the hill from Deanie's.

Don Cullen, internationally known director-playwright-actor, associated with the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., will fly from Toronto to select a cast for Performing Arts of Woodstock's next production, a socio-satiric revue which is scheduled to open on New Year's Eve.

Will Headline Stage Show on Saturday

Comedian Bobby Ramsen will headline the stage show at the annual Ahavath Israel Thanksgiving Ball to be held at 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18 at Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue.

At 18 Mr. Ramsen decided to become a comedian and started working in small nightclubs in the New England area to gain experience and collect material. After two years on the circuit, he opened at New York's famed Copacabana to rave reviews. Since then he has appeared at top supper clubs in major cities through the country, sharing top billing with such stars as Bobby Daren, Andy Williams and the Supremes. Bobby Ramsen has also been booked repeatedly for television appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show, the Jackie Gleason Show, the Tonight Show, and the Merv Griffin Show.

Sharing the spotlight with Mr. Ramsen will be vocalist Joanne Engel. There will be music for dancing until 1 a.m. by Pete Ferraro and his Band. Complimentary refreshments will be served.

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the door or may be obtained at Broadway Dry Goods, Al's Appliance, H. G. Rafalowsky's or Abram's Music Store.

Square Dancing Program

The Lefooters Square Dance Club is pleased to have guest caller, Dona Prudhomme, return once again to the Hudson Valley to call at the clubs' dance this Friday night. The dance will start at 8 p.m. in the Hurley Reformed Church hall off Route 209.

This will be Prudhomme's third appearance with the Lefooters within the past nine months. He previously called in March and June and is rapidly becoming one of the club's favorite guest callers. In June, his wife, Vera, assisted him by cuing round dances.

Dona Prudhomme is a native of Newport, N.H., where he and his wife are proprietors of the Corner Coffee Shop. He is a full time square dance caller and is active throughout the state of

New Hampshire as well as the remainder of New England, New Jersey and New York. He is club caller for several clubs including the Circle 8's in Claremont N.H., and the Kearsarge Kapers in Franklin, N.H. He also teaches workshop classes for those two clubs and a "PHD" class for the Circle 8's and the Twin State Squares of White River Junction Vt. In addition, he has a square dance tour to Florida each year and records his square dance calling on Top Records. He serves as guest caller for many clubs and has called at numerous New England Square Dance Conventions.

All club level dancers are invited to welcome Dona Prudhomme back to the Lefooters' dance and to enjoy another outstanding evening of square dancing.

Wife Mops Up Exhausted Hubby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1972 by Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My husband complained that he was too exhausted after work to mow our lawn, so my 13-year-old son and I did it, and believe me, it was no small job.

Meanwhile my husband disappeared. About sundown I was shaking the mop from an upstairs bedroom window and I happened to look across the way, and there was "Exhausted" hammering away on my neighbor's roof! My neighbor is a young, pretty widow who I hear hasn't paid (in cash) to get anything done around her house since her husband died last year.

Well, I went right over there and climbed up the ladder he used to get on her roof, and I hit him a good one with the mop. I told him that if he had that much energy to get on home because I had a few jobs for him. The widow saw it all and chuckled. He came home shortly afterward but was so mad he wouldn't speak to me. All thru supper he wouldn't even look at me, and that was the first night we ever went to bed mad.

Now you be the judge, Abby. Should I be mad at him for refusing to mow the lawn, but going next door to work on the lady's roof? Or should he be mad at me for going after him and making him come home?

RIGHT OR WRONG
DEAR R OR W: It's a draw. But a man is slow to forgive a woman who publicly belittles him. You should have let him take his own sweet time getting home — and THEN hit him with the mop!

DEAR ABBY: When someone carries a cake, pie salad or something like that to my home, I never return the pan or bowl it came in empty. My mother taught me that.

Well, yesterday my sister in law dropped off a collection of pots, pans, and bowls she'd had at her house for over a year. They weren't empty, either. And do you know what she had in them? A bill for storage!

Was his supposed to be funny?
NOT LAUGHING
DEAR NOT: I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man with an 89-year-old problem. My mother in law lives with us and we haven't had a decent night's sleep in two years.

Before then, for 22 years, my wife and her older sister took turns keeping Mom. One sister would keep her until she gave out, then the other one would take her until SHE gave out. There are two brothers who tried to keep Mom, but after the second day they called and screamed, "Come and get her, she is driving us nuts!"

I haven't slept with my wife in two years because we've had to keep our bedroom door open in case Mom calls us or falls out of bed. And with the door open Mom wanders in and out of our room all night long.

I'm afraid my wife is heading for a nervous breakdown. I know Mom belongs in a home and her sons have offered to foot the bill, but my wife doesn't want to go back on her word.

What is your advice?
WHIPPED IN TENNESSEE
DEAR WHIPPED: Death-bed promises are usually charged with emotion, so the word from here is to put Mom in a home. And tell your wife she needn't feel guilty. The Lord is all forgiving and compassionate, and He will understand.

Two Straight Hat Tricks for Vickers

Rangers Find the Third Man

By United Press International

The third man theme has finally struck a resonant chord for the New York Rangers.

For two years, Coach Emile Francis has been looking for a man to play left wing on the line with center Walt Tkaczuk and right wing Bill Fairbairn. There is little doubt among New York fans today that the search has come to a fruitful end with the unveiling of Steve Vickers, the 15th man to be tried at that position.

Vickers, only a second-year pro, scored three goals Wednesday night to become the first rookie in National Hockey League history and the first Ranger player ever to notch the hat trick in successive games. In the process, he lifted the Rangers to their fifth consecutive victory with a 7-3 decision over the Philadelphia Flyers.

"I hope they don't expect three goals from me every night," said Vickers, who got his first NHL hat trick against Los Angeles on Sunday and now has seven goals since being elevated to the No. 2 line last Wednesday.

"Two games don't make a season. Maybe it's luck. I hope I'm not just a flash in the pan. I still have to prove to myself that I'm capable of playing here."

The 21-year-old wing tried to minimize his efforts, saying, "I was just in the right spot. They put it on my stick. Anyone could have put it in." But to Tkaczuk and Fairbairn, that's the exact secret of Vickers' success, the fact that he's always in the right place at the right time.

"He positions himself in front of the net and doesn't get pushed away," said Tkaczuk, who had three assists for the night. "When I get the puck I don't have to waste time and take a long look for him. There's a place where he should be and that's where he is."

Fairbairn, who had a goal and four assists, said Vickers fits in with him and Tkaczuk because "he plays the same style of aggressive hockey as we do, and we always know where he is. He's always in the right spot."

Vickers, who now has 10 goals for the season, admitted he had a second hat trick on his mind after getting his second goal of the night in the second period. "I guess I had selfish thoughts on my mind," he confessed, and he achieved his aim by converting a pass from Tkaczuk with 7:06 left to play.

The victory stretched the Rangers' unbeaten string on home ice to 10 games, including nine victories and a tie, and enabled them to close within five points of first place Montreal, which was idle in the East Division race.

The Los Angeles Kings moved into a tie with Philadelphia for first place in the West by skating to a 3-3 deadlock with the Buffalo Sabres, and in other NHL action the Pittsburgh Penguins routed the Minnesota North Stars, 7-1, the Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Atlanta Flames, 2-1, and the Detroit Red Wings beat the California Golden Seals, 4-0.

Despite Vickers' historic hat trick, it was actually a pair of goals by Rod Gilbert and Fairbairn coming 47 seconds apart early in the third period that enabled the Rangers to snap a 3-3 tie and take a commanding lead. Simon Nolet scored two goals for Philadelphia, which had its three-game winning streak ended.

Steve Atkinson scored his fifth goal of the season with 10:56 left to play to earn Buffalo its tie at Los Angeles. The Kings had jumped to a 2-0 lead on goals by Butch Goring and Don Kozak, but the Sabres drew even in the second period as Rick Martin and Gerry Meehan both scored.

Lowell MacDonald registered the second hat trick of his NHL career for Pittsburgh, increasing his season total to 10 goals. Goalie Jim Rutherford lost his shutout when Dennis O'Brien scored for Minnesota with only 3:58 left to play.

Ron Ellis and Rick Kehoe scored 19 seconds apart in the second period for the only Toronto goals against Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard and Detroit netminder Roy Edwards turned aside 20 California shots to register his second shutout of the season.

BATTING PRACTICE — John Havlicek (17) of the Celtics bats ball away from Suns' Dick Van Arsdale (5) as teammate Charlie Scott (R) awaits chance at ball during first quarter action Thursday. Boston won. (UPI)

Celts Keep Rolling

By United Press International

Like good, vintage wine, the Boston Celtics are leaving a pleasant after-taste in the National Basketball Association.

Watching the Celtics in action induces some to recall the championship seasons that belonged to Boston year after year during the late 1950s and 60s. Dave Cowens is far from a polished Bill Russell, but the young, red-haired giant is picking up the experience in the pivot.

Cowens scored 25 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Wednesday night as Boston plastered the Phoenix Suns, 113-94, and posted its 14th win in 15 starts this season. Don Nelson, with the Celtics since 1965, contributed 21 points to the Boston attack as the team opened a game lead over New York in the Atlantic Division.

Charlie Scott led Phoenix with 33 points and Dick Van Arsdale went over the 10,000-point career mark with his 14 tallies.

Los Angeles opened a two-game lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division by beating Detroit, 110-99, and Kansas City-Omaha drubbed Seattle, 106-97, in other league action.

Gail Goodrich netted a Los Angeles high of 24 points as the Lakers won their eighth consecutive game. Wilt Chamberlain helped with 21 points, including 3-for-3 from the foul line. His nine for 10 from the floor raised his league-leading field goal percentage to .796 on 109 of 137. Dave Bing, Bob Lanier and Fred Foster paced the Pistons with 20 points each.

Nate Archibald scored a personal high of 47 points as the KC Omaha went over the .500 mark at 9-8. This is the first time Bob Cousy has been able to attain that plateau since leaving over as coach four years ago. Spencer Haywood paced Seattle with 27 points.

Raiders Lose Owner

By United Press International

The New York Raiders set a World Hockey Association first Wednesday night when they lost their owner as well as a game.

The financially-plagued Raiders were placed in trusteeship by the WHA while prospective buyers of the club are to be screened. Dick Wood, the former owner, said expenses in New York were about three times as much as he had anticipated. He reportedly was looking for buyers for several weeks.

"We are seeking investors who offer more than money," said WHA President Gary Davidson. "We also want owners to have a strong partnership with others in the league and a business knowledge that will help make the club solvent."

The Raiders made it a gloomy night all around as they blew a 4-3 lead at Quebec City to drop a 7-4 decision to the Nordiques. Alain Caron scored the first hat trick in Nordique history, touching off a third period rally when Quebec scored four goals. Robert Guindon, Andre Gaudette and Jean Guy Gendron also scored for the Nordiques in the final period as Quebec moved into a first place tie with the Cleveland in the East Division.

Nets Love It Home

By United Press International

There's no place like home as far as the New York Nets are concerned.

The Nets, who lost six straight games on the road, snapped their losing streak Wednesday night as George Carter poured in 34 points to spark a 112-107 victory over the Carolina Cougars.

Carter scored 24 points in the first half as the Nets built a 63-47 lead and then hit eight of the team's last 11 points to put down a Carolina rally.

Billy Paulitz added 20 points for the Nets while Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell had 24 each for the Cougars.

In the only other American Basketball Association action, the Memphis Tams rolled over the San Diego Conquistadors 126-101 and the Dallas Chaparrals turned back the Kentucky Colonels 104-99.

Rich Jones' basket with 1:15 to play broke a 97-97 tie and boosted the Chaps over Kentucky. Bob Netolicky led Dallas with 31 points and Jones had 25.

Biggest Moment For Charlie O.

LA PORTE, Ind. (UPI)—It was Charlie Finley's biggest moment, like winning the World Series all over again, and not even Vida Blue wanted to ruin that for him.

So when someone asked Blue the inevitable question about his 1973 contract and the inevitable problems he probably will have before he signs it, he was ready with the quick answer.

"Whv," he said, "should we spoil the evening by talking contract?"

Blue, Oakland teammate Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace, the World Series MVP, Manager Dick Williams, the Indiana governor and 1,500 of Finley's hometown neighbors turned out on a freezing night for a buffet testimonial dinner in a dark gymnasium to honor the colorful, maverick owner of the A's.

Most of the guests waved green-and-gold A's pennants. But much of the attention also went to Blue, the 1971 American League MVP and Cy Young Award winner who dropped from 24 victories to six this year after a long and stormy holdout.

Just last month, Blue skipped the Series celebration party Finley threw for the team, so it ranked as something of a surprise that he showed up at this party, which was strictly Finley's night.

"We get along and respect each other," Blue said. "I think he respects me as a man, at least I hope he does, and I respect him. I don't anticipate any hassle being signed next year."

Blue, who said he was "killing two birds with one stone" because he also had to be in nearby Chicago this week on business, even had some complimentary things to say about Finley.

"Mr. Finley doesn't know my feelings about this, but he gets my vote as the executive of the year," Blue said. "He made all the trades and did the things that helped us win."

Jackson, who could not play in the Series because of an injury he sustained scoring a key run in the final playoff game, said the cast was removed from his leg 10 days ago and doctors told him he would be ready to resume full activity by the start of spring training.

Finley, resplendent as always, sat at the head table with his wife Shirley wearing a bright red sports jacket, causing Roland Hemond, personnel director of the second-place Chicago White Sox, to point out Finley was wearing Chicago's colors.

But Charlie had an excuse. The green coat that became so familiar to television watchers during the World Series "had to be sent to the cleaners because it was so full of perspiration and champagne," he said.

"I sent it to the wrong cleaners, I guess, because it shrunk," Finley said.

It was a night for the common folk, tickets priced at $2 to encourage kids to come out, and Hemond was the only non-Oakland baseball official in the house.

But many personalities sent telegrams, including an inevitable message from President Nixon. Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago also sent a telegram.

There was no word of a message, however, from Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, who fined Finley $2,500 after the World Series for giving his players bonuses in violation of baseball rules.

A New Dick Allen

CHICAGO (AP) — "All I asked for when I came here was one year of peace of mind," said the American League's newly honored Most Valuable Player for 1972.

First baseman Dick Allen, his image as a moody, controversial former National League star behind him, made it plain Wednesday that finding "a home in Chicago where I really feel like a human being" spurred his superb AL debut with the White Sox.

A genial Allen, garbed in a maroon mod suit replete with matching boots, touched all bases—past and present—at a news conference following his landslide MVP choice by the Baseball Writers Association of America earlier in the day.

The 30-year-old Allen, who led the AL in home runs with 37 and in RBI with a career high of 113 while batting .308, modestly said "I think this is quite an honor and I hope I'm worthy of it."

"Actually, I thought Joe Rudi

(outfielder for the world champion Oakland A's) would have won it. Baseball is my life, it makes me go. This would mean more to me had we won the pennant."

Rudi finished a distant second in the MVP voting, with 164 points compared with Allen's 321.

Allen, completely at ease before a battery of microphones, at the start thanked the Philadelphia Phil scout, Johnny Ogden, who signed him in 1960. Ogden encouraged him "like a father," after a discouraging 1963 Phil debut, to attain NL Rookie of the Year honors in 1964 with a .318 batting average.

In between that Rookie of the Year Award and Wednesday's MVP selection, came "so many years of stories and criticism without hearing from me."

Allen said of his unhappy stay with the Phils and one-year stints each with the St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I came to Chicago specifically to win, but when the Dodgers traded me, I thought 'Gee, what are they doing to me.'"

Allen said. "But the fans and the press made me feel really wanted. Believe me, I won't stop until Chicago has a winner."

Allen joked at the question of what salary he will demand next season after missing the entire spring training this year before signing with the Sox April 1 for an estimated $135,000.

"I don't know, how much do you have?" he tossed at the horde of interviewers, then adding: "I had hoped to talk contract on this trip, but Stu Holcomb (Sox general manager) is out of town. But I don't think it will take too much talking to sign."

Would Allen again skip spring training? Chuck Tanner, the AP's 1972 AL Manager of the Year, recently said he would chase Allen out of camp if he showed up.

"You tell me," was Allen's smiling comment.

Jets' Weary Defense Set for Miami Trio

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Jets, having taken on the cream of the National Football League's crop of running backs in recent weeks, may go into a shuffling act Sunday when they face the Miami Dolphins' talented trio.

The Jets, who in recent weeks have had to contend with Carl Garrett (New England), Larry Brown (Washington) and O.J. Simpson (Buffalo), go against possibly the best trio in the league Sunday in the Dolphins' Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick.

"We've had our fill of great running backs recently and we got three more good ones this week," said Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank. "We may have to do some switching in our front line to keep fresh people in there."

The Jets' starting foursome of Gerry Philbin, John Elliott, John Little and Mark Lomas has done well in containing the league Sunday in the Dolphins' Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick.

That's why Ewbank is considering having veteran Steve Thompson, who rejoined the club three weeks ago after a year's absence, and a pair of talented rookies, Ed Galigher and Joey Jackson, ready for spot duty.

Thompson, who played with the Jets' 1968 Super Bowl Club, is slowly rounding into shape, while Galigher, a muscular rookie from UCLA, had an outstanding game against Buffalo last week and can play any of the front four slots. Jackson, the biggest man of the squad at 6-foot-5 and 265 pounds, had two quarterback dumps in little more than a period Sunday.

Ewbank said he probably will start another rookie—Mike Taylor, a No. 1 draft choice from Michigan—at left linebacker.

Miami, unbeaten in nine starts, can wrap up the American Conference Eastern title with a victory Sunday. Even if they should lose their last four games and the Jets win theirs, the Dolphins would win on the basis of head-to-head competition. Miami won the first meeting in New York earlier this season.

The Jets, meanwhile, are hoping for the "wild card" playoff slot that goes to the second-place team in each conference with the best record. They currently are tied with Cleveland, second in the Central Division, at 6-3.

Dolphin Coach Don Shula says he plans to start Morris with Csonka in the backfield, claiming Kiick has a minor knee injury. Kiick, however, claims he has no such injury and that he has been healthy since the second day of training camp.

Shula also said the status of star wide receiver Paul Warfield is questionable. Warfield sustained a bruised arch on his left foot in a 33-0 rout of New England last week and won't test it until Friday, according to Shula. Marlin Briscoe and Otto Stowe are the reserve wide receivers and Shula said veteran Karl Noonan is ready to return to duty if necessary.

One of the key battles of the game will be between Miami wide receiver Howard Twilley and Jet cornerback Steve Tannen. Both are close friends off the field and work out together in Miami. Tannen's home town, in the off-season, Twilley has been particularly effective against Tannen in the past and could be a major factor with Warfield obviously below par.

"Howard's a good receiver, better than a lot of the guys people classify in the 'great category,'" Tannen said. "He always seems to make the big catch for them. Every year they bring in a guy to take his place and every year Howard is out there playing. He's a very physical competitor despite his size (5-10, 180) and he runs every play like it's the biggest play of the game."

"A lot of guys loaf down the field when they're not involved in the play, but not Howard. He goes all out, 100 per cent. He's a helluva blocker, too."

The Dolphins have been listed as seven-point favorites to capture the title.

Brooks Named A 13th Time

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—For the 13th time in 15 years of voting, third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles has won the Gold Glove for the best fielding at his position in the American League, the Sporting News announced Wednesday.

In its poll of managers and coaches, the national sports weekly said, outfielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates garnered the most votes in the National League, winning his 12th award. Besides Robinson, the American League All-Star fielding awards went to George Scott of the Brewers at first base; Doug Griffin, Red Sox, second base; Ed Brinkman, Tigers, shortstop; Paul Blair, Orioles, Bobby Murcer, Yankees, and Ken Berry, Angels, in the outfield; Carlton Fisk, Red Sox, catcher; and Jim Kaat, Twins, pitcher.

Clemente was joined on the National League team by Wes Parker, Dodgers, first base; Felix Millan, Braves, second base; Doug Rader, Astros, third base; Larry Bowa, Phillies, shortstop; Cesar Cedeño, no, Astros, and Willie Davis, Dodgers, in the outfield; Johnny Bench, Reds, catcher; and Bob Gibson, Cardinals, pitcher.

Attorney Hopeful Of Retaining Games

DENVER (AP) — The chairman of the Colorado Citizens Committee to Retain the Winter Games says he was "greatly encouraged" after talking with International Olympic Committee President Lord Killanin that the 1976 Winter Games might still be held in Colorado.

Harry L. Arkin, Denver attorney, returned to Denver Tuesday night after meeting with Lord Killanin for three hours Monday morning at IOC headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Killanin told Arkin that only the IOC or the U.S. Olympic Committee had the authority to remove the Games from Colorado, Arkin said Wednesday.

The IOC, however, announced Wednesday that national Olympic committees have been instructed to submit new bids by Jan. 15 for the 1976 Winter Games following formal notification from the Denver Olympic Organizing Committee (DOOC) Wednesday of the withdrawal of Denver as the host city.

But, according to Arkin, Killanin told him, "They (the DOOC) can't give the games up because they weren't given to them in the first place."

Killanin told Arkin that, under Rule 50 of the Olympic Rules and Regulations, the Games were actually awarded to the USOC rather than to the DOOC, Arkin said.

Sooner-Penn St. Matchup In Sugar Bowl, AP Says

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oklahoma will return to defend its Sugar Bowl title New Year's Eve night against Penn State, an Eastern power making its first appearance in the Sugar Bowl classic.

The Associated Press learned of the matchup Wednesday, although it cannot be announced officially until Saturday afternoon because of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules.

Fourth-ranked Oklahoma is 7-1 for the season—the loss was to Colorado—with Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma State still ahead.

Sixth-ranked Penn State is 8-1, having won eight straight since a 28-21 loss to Tennessee

Pittsburgh.

Confirmation of the Sugar Bowl match, a source close to behind-the-scenes bowl negotiations told The Associated Press, makes it a virtual certainty that Nebraska will play Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl with Alabama meeting Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Penn State, under Coach Joe Paterno, will be heavily favored in its final two games against Boston College and

Pittsburgh.

Oklahoma's wishbone ran wild in a 40-22 romp over Auburn in last season's Sugar Bowl while Penn State was whipping Texas 30-6 in the Cotton Bowl.

Record Book Spurs Kingston Against Poughkeepsie

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — A lot of things have happened since August 23 when Kingston High School's football team began pre-season practice. Now, 86 days later, the Maroons are preparing for Saturday's finale at Poughkeepsie not as a contender, but as a team striving to come out a winner. "They're psyched up," declared KHS coach Tony Badalato, whose team is 3-4 in the DCSL and 4-4 overall. The players are "psyched" because a victory over the Pioneers would mean back-to-back winning seasons and no Kingston gridiron club has done that since 1958.

"It's funny," Badalato pointed out, "but the kids seem to be having more fun now. We enjoyed ourselves last week against Lourdes, everyone is just having fun. I guess it's because the pressure's off." The pressure has been off ever since Kingston dropped out of the pennant race in October and while winning Saturday and finishing over .500 is a much desired goal, the Maroons need not feel this is a do-or-die situation. They will be loose as the proverbial goose. Ironically, the campaign will end on the same field where Kingston's two-year comeback began. It was on September 18, 1971 that KHS, fresh from an 8-0 season the year before, stepped onto Poughkeepsie's

Forbes Street turf, perhaps a little wary of what was ahead, but confident of improving its lot. Kingston won, 21-0, on that cloudy afternoon. Joe Riley scored a nine-yard TD in the first quarter which stood up until the fourth period when Walt Houghtaling threw a 16-yard six-pointer to John Tiano; Tom Turco caught a conversion; and Bruce McCrindle recovered a Houghtaling fumble in the end zone, then kicked the extra point, to give the Maroons the victory. It was a banner day for Kingston. Bounced by the victory, KHS ran off a streak of four more triumphs before finally being stalled at Amsterdam in an 8-7 thriller which local fans will be talking about for some time. KHS eventually wound up 6-3 and although this year's 4-4 is somewhat of a disappointment, Kingston is definitely back as far as Hudson Valley prominence is concerned. The try for a fifth win will be against a Poughkeepsie club which stands 4-3 in the league, 5-3 overall. "I'm not overly disappointed with our league record," said PHS coach Bill Mahar. "I knew we'd have trouble with Arlington and Ketcham, it's the Beacon loss that I didn't expect." Mahar says his club isn't exactly in the best physical shape of the season and figures to have only 24 players in uniform Saturday. But the starters will be there, so barring further injury, Kingston will see Poughkeepsie's best. That group includes quarterback Joe Wallwork, whom KHS intercepted three times in last year's game. Harry Hobbs is the Pioneers' main running threat and Lance Betros is Poughkeepsie's outstanding defensive lineman. "Kingston is a real tough club with an exceptional quarterback," Mahar said. "They are definitely better than their record." Badalato has similar words for Poughkeepsie: "They've won some good ballgames and they've lost some tough ones." Kingston should be at its peak. The offensive line has come a long way as has the offensive backfield, running back Bob Marz in particular. The defense has been solid most of the season. Those seniors seeing their final action for Kingston Saturday will be: Houghtaling, Jeff Lowe, Jeff Longendyke, Chuck Bouton, Dan Brown, Jim Cammans, John Carter, Joe Conlin, Joe Cozza, Joe Fay, Lee Geanuleas, Jim Gualtieri, Don Hopper, Lee Lafferty, Gary Littlefield, Marz, Jim Milano, Kim Nichols, John Osborn, Bill Powers, Keith Rossi, and Turco. Another senior, Ray DeSimmons, is injured. Obviously, Kingston will be hurt by graduation. "It looks like next year we'll really have to rebuild," Badalato stated. But before that there's the little matter of Poughkeepsie and that sought-after 5-4 record. Mahar promises that Saturday's game will probably be played on a field resembling chocolate pudding. Poughkeepsie hasn't practiced on it all week. Ketcham (6-1) needs a win at Lourdes Saturday to capture the DCSL championship. If Ketcham loses, unlikely as it may seem, there will be at least a two-way tie for the crown, possibly a three or four-way deadlock.

Saugerties, idle this week, finished 6-2. Arlington and Beacon are both 5-2 and play Roosevelt and Jay respectively. They too can be involved in a tie. It all depends on what Ketcham does. Last year, Saugerties, Ketcham, Arlington, and Lourdes had to share the title. Who says the UCL is the only balanced league around? In the Sunday Freeman, No. 20 on Kingston was identified in a photo as "John Fay." Unfortunately "John Fay" is Joe Fay and he's No. 27. Raymond Gay was the man in the picture.

63 Straight For School

CHICAGO (UPI)—An Illinois high school football team has just completed its seventh consecutive undefeated season, so guess what it is thinking about now.

Number eight, of course. Pittsfield High School, in west central Illinois, allowed only six points—one touchdown—in beating its nine opponents this season.

It has won 63 games in a row, and another perfect season next year would enable it to surpass the unofficial national record of 71 straight victories by Jefferson City, Mo., from 1958 to 1966.

Fred Erickson, Pittsfield's 31-year-old, first-year coach, doesn't believe there's any magic to what his team has done.

"We started a weight program and summer conditioning program when no other schools around here were doing it," he said simply.

Remarkably, few of the games even have been close. In 1967, the second all-winning year, Pittsfield needed a late field goal to win a game, but that's as close as the streak has come to ending.

"It's easy once you get it going," Erickson said. "Little kids see what's going on, they see all the publicity, and they want to be part of it."

Pittsfield has a population of 4,100, about half of whom regularly show up for the high school football games on Friday or Saturday nights.

A post-season banquet is planned and a television station is producing a special on the seven unbeaten seasons, but otherwise life is continuing normally because the folks have learned to live with success.

What is surprising, perhaps, is that all the unbeaten teams are yet to produce a player who went on to become a big college standout. In fact, about the best-known Pittsfield alumnus is Tom McCartney, the backup quarterback at Illinois who started two games earlier in the season when Mike Wells was injured.

Erickson, who took over the coaching job this year when Don Pollard left to become the defensive backfield coach at Western Illinois, thinks he has a potential star among this year's seniors, however.

Ronnie Ghrist, a 6-foot-2, 215-pounder, who plays linebacker and guard and runs the 40-yard dash in 4.7 seconds, has received "feelers" from about 50 colleges including Notre Dame, Texas, Missouri, UCLA and Southern California.

But Erickson has turned his thoughts to 1973 when he will try to keep the streak alive with a team that will have only five seniors.

"It will be a rebuilding year," he says.

Andrea Mead Lawrence Says

Olympics Need Overhauling

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Andrea Mead Lawrence, the only American skier ever to win two Olympic gold medals, is still very much in evidence these days but the athletes have been shoved in the background, and we are all at fault, every single one (nations) of us.

Commercialism and politics, Mrs. Lawrence sees it, are the culprits. So, too, is the excessive expense of staging an Olympics Games. (The 1972 games cost West Germany over $600 million).

Mrs. Lawrence, who first went to the Olympics as a 15-year-old in 1948 and subsequently participated in the 1952 and 1956 games, has a plan to save the movement. It's not new.

"Obviously, the Olympics are not the same," she said. "Happily, the competitive spirit is still very much in evidence these days but the athletes have been shoved in the background, and we are all at fault, every single one (nations) of us."

But what she has done is take all the ideas advanced in the past few years and wrapped them up in one neat package. You aren't going to save the Olympics piecemeal," she said. "You have to start at the top and work your way down. The whole structure needs investigation."

Bailey Eleven Champs

KINGSTON — J. Watson Bailey School's football team defeated its two intra-city rivals — M. Clifford Miller and MJM schools — to claim the 1973 city junior high championship.

The team, coached by George Tomson and Charlie Castle, won five of six games, losing only to Haviland of Dutchess County, 20-8.

The Bailey Bombers trounced MJM, 22-0; Our Lady of Lourdes, 28-14; Saugerties, 20-12; Miller, 20-6; and Arlington, 20-16.

Clinton Brown scored 12 points and Warren Cagnone 8 for Bailey in the crucial game against Miller's. The leading running back Bruce Churchill, was surprisingly held at bay by double coverage. He was held scoreless for the first time during the season.

Bailey's offense, sparked by the David Milliken-Mike Morris passing combination and the hard running of Brown, Cagnone and Churchill, averaged 20 points a game. The three running backs racked up 1096 yards in 222 carries. The Bailey defense, anchored by Morris, Tom Brown, Jeff Chyzik and Paul Roeber, limited the opposition to an average of 12 points per game.

The statistics:

SEASONAL RECORD

Bailey	22	MJM	0
Bailey	8	Haviland	20
Bailey	28	Lourdes	14
Bailey	20	Saugerties	12
Bailey	20	M. C. Miller	6
Bailey	20	Arlington	16
Won 5, Lost 1

INDIVIDUAL SCORING

Mike Morris, 36 points; Churchill, 24 (395 yards in 89 carries); David Milliken, 20 points; Clinton Brown, 16 points (344 yards, 76 carries); Cagnone, 12 points (357 yards, 56 carries); Bruce Schnakenburg, 10 points.

Herring Wins Two Matches

KINGSTON — On his very first trip to the table in the second annual Kingston Invitational Pocket Billiard Tournament, Earl Herring, the smooth-stroking, defending champion from Newburgh put the rest of the field on notice that he makes the weekly trip to play — and repeat as champion.

Herring got a good leave off Bill Klintworth's opening break shot, ran 69 balls and proceeded to rout the formidable Hilby City opponent, 125-18. Later he came back to crush Richie Tomanio, 125-2.

That comes out to a combined 250-to-20 for Herring. And the message was not lost, on his challengers.

Three other players, including Kingston's Dave Dolly, won their first two matches. Holly had a run of 46 in checking Bob Harbster, 125-75, then outlasted Class B champion, Jim Ferrendino of Kingston, 125-117.

Art Barron, the Newburgh vet, ran 54 and out to top John Beaudette, 125-53, then beat Ricky Wright, 125-55. Art (Wags) Weygant scored his double by stopping Tomanio, 125-107, and Lonnie Kogon, 125-37.

Billy Costello, who challenged Herring for the title last year, split his two matches, defeating Ferrendino, 125-85, and dropping a 125-123 squeaker to Klintworth. Wright turned back Harbster, 125-75, and Beaudette checked Harbster by 125-123.

Successful Deer Hunters Will Have Another Chore

ALBANY — Successful deer hunters in New York are being asked to report one more fact this season than in the past. In addition to reporting the county and town in which they took their deer, they are also being asked to report the deer management unit or DMU.

The Department of Environmental Conservation has divided the State into 29 numbered DMUs to facilitate better deer management. An outline map is provided in the 1972-73 Hunting and Fishing Guide which is given to every hunter when he buys his license. A detailed map with descriptions of DMU boundaries is part of the party permit map, also available from license-issuing agents across the State.

William T. Hesselton, leader of the Big Game Project at the Department's Wildlife Research Laboratory, explained, "New York State is not a uniform deer range. Deer live in river valleys and on mountains. They live on good soil and poor soil, where there is intensive farming and marginal farms, in suburban surroundings and wilderness tracts and everything in between."

"For this reason, deer management units have been designated as geographical units within which deer range is relatively uniform and where specific regulations may be employed to manage deer, based upon known biological facts," he said.

Establishing DMU's and applying management techniques to these areas will result in better utilization of the deer herd, healthier deer and preservation of the range, allowing the highest continuous harvest of antlered deer. In turn, there will be more hunting opportunity provided with fewer conflicts between hunters and landowners and deer and landowners.

To make the DMU system effective, successful hunters are asked to report their deer by deer management unit as well as the standard listing of town and county on their big game license report form.

An informational brochure on the DMU is available by writing to: Department of Environmental Conservation, 50 Wolf Road, Albany, N.Y. 12201.

TROOP 12 WINNERS — Awards and accolades were heaped on members of the Troop 12 Indians at the recent 6th Annual Indians Drum and Bugle Corps Recognition Banquet at the Walnut Grove. Milton Finch (L) was named 1972 Corpsman of the Year and Robert Faust (R) was named 1972 Rookie of the Year for the junior musicians. Other awards included a citation for Scott Burlough, 1972's Most Reliable Corpsman.

Brazil's 'Integralists' Still Organize Discreetly

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Once they wore green shirts and military-style uniforms. They fought pitched battles with Communists and Socialists on the streets, and they greeted one another with raised stiff-armed salutes.

Now they wear business suits and clerical collars, as cabinet ministers, politicians, educators and members of the clergy.

In their heyday they were known as the "integralistas"—a tightly knit organization which stashed away arms, organized a secret government, and once attempted a comic opera style coup d'etat that was almost successful.

Today they avoid the mass marches and bombastics that were their trademark in the 1930s, but they continue to organize, discreetly, holding meetings under names like Uniao Operaria e Camponesa do Brasil (Brazilian Workers and Peasant Union) and the Cruzada de Renovacao Nacional (Crusade of National Renovation).

Every year Brazilian newspapers and magazines—severely censored by the military government in reporting current events—devote long articles to the integralista movement of the past, describing it as the strongest Fascist organization to have gained a foothold in Brazil.

The Jornal do Brasil and historian Helio Silva have published long lists of names of the important integralista members. Some are now prominent in Brazil's ruling elite, such as Justice Minister Alfredo Buzaid, Rio de Janeiro State Governor Raimundo Palha, and Miguel Reale, director of the University of Sao Paulo.

While these men are associated with the political right, integralistas also followed political careers on the left.

Francisco Clementino San Thiago Dantas, finance minister under left-leaning President Joao Goulart (1961-1964), and the leftist archbishop of Olinda and Recife, Dom Helder Camara, who described his involvement as "an error of my youth," were both integralistas.

The one leading integralista who does not claim to have changed his ways is the movement's founder, 77-year-old Plinio Salgado, a Federal Deputy representing Sao Paulo State. Friends still call him "Chefe Nacional," his old title in the 1930s.

Salgado always has denied links with Nazism or Fascism, although in the 1930s the integralistas received subsidies from the Italian embassy and its greenshirted members held military style parades and wore armbands with a "sigma" symbol similar to a swastika.

The movement's attempt to take over the government came just before World War II when, in 1938, integralistas disguised as sailors surprised the presidential palace in a night attack. It was an ill conceived adventure and the attackers were beaten off, but only after several hours of fighting.

During World War II when Brazil was an ally of the United States, the FBI classified integralistas as subversives. After the war the movement pretty much disintegrated although some of the ex-greenshirts still maintain contact and continue to look to Salgado as a leader.

Integralista membership today is not precisely known. Salgado claims he could "mobilize" 700,000 men if needed but most observers regard this as a gross exaggeration.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

ANGELO CASABLANCA, et al.
vs. TINA LAND CORP., et al.
Pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale duly made and entered bearing date the 2nd day of November, 1972, I, the Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, in the Front Vestibule of the County Courthouse, 285 Wall Street, Kingston, New York, on the 8th day of December, 1972 at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and described as follows:

SCHEDULE A
DESCRIPTION OF MORTGAGED PREMISES

ALL THAT tract or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements and outer buildings thereon erected,
situate in the Town of Plattekill,
Ulster County, New York, which tract or parcel of land is composed of several smaller tracts of land which were conveyed by Sara Lounsbury, wife of Henry Lounsbury, to Mary
All Elmendorf by deed bearing date July 23, 1871 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office August 10th, 1871 in book 207 of Deeds, page 67 and therein described as follows: All those certain lots of land
situate in the Town of Plattekill,
Ulster County, New York heretofore conveyed to Sarah Lounsbury by William Mackey by deed bearing date Dec. 13, 1862 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office August 10th, 1871 in book 207 of Deeds, page 67 and therein described as follows: All those certain lots of land
situate in the Town of Plattekill,
Ulster County, New York heretofore
conveyed to Sarah Lounsbury by William Mackey by deed bearing date June 22, 1865 and described therein as certain lots of land
situate in the Town of Plattekill,
Ulster County, New York heretofore conveyed to the said Sarah Lounsbury by William Mackey by deed bearing date June 1, 1871 and particularly described in said conveyance and therein said to contain four and sevenths acres of land believing the same more or less being the real estate owned by said Margaret Lounsbury and the said Town of Platte-kill. The above property is bounded as follows:

On the north by lands formerly belonging to Charles Emsky on the west by lands of heirs of Thomas Elmendorf and on the south by lands formerly of Augustus S. S.
John; on the east by lands of Heremiah Rhodes, dec'd. Also a right of way in and to a certain lane adjoining the lands above described on the west running from the public highway in a northerly direction to a point in said road situated sixteen feet north of a marked stone set in the ground on the east side of said lane and at the northwest line of said Lounsbury's barn. The premises hereby intended to be described embrace all the land lying between the fences of said lane as the fences now stand supposed to be about one rod from fence to fence and from the place of beginning to the terminus sixteen feet north of said monument.

dated April 18, 1902 made by Richard Elmendorf to Frederick Peplow and Carolina Peplow his wife, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office April 22, 1902 in Book 371 of Deeds, page 168 as follows:

Bounded on the north by lands of Patrick McGowan; on the east by lands of Patrick McGowan and Frederick Peplow; on the south by the highway leading from "Collins Corner" to "O'Brien's Corner" and on the west by lands of Richard Elmendorf, the westerly line is marked nearly all the way by a stone wall or rail fence or both, containing about eight acres of land believing the same more or less.

Said premises being more accurately described in the judgment of foreclosure and sale. Subject to conveyance easements and restrictions of record and any state of facts an accurate survey may show. Subject to rights if any of tenants and persons in possession. Subject to all departmental violations, if any.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when there is considerable activity in every walk of life. The busy bees will be able to find flaws in whatever plans the may have with the ability to eliminate them. Putting in at once a new workable plan of action can bring quickest possible success. Show appreciation to others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have new ideas and personalities to concentrate upon and should do so now to become more successful. One who does not think as you do has the information you want. Ask for it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Much reflection is required where new ideas are concerned. An expert can give you the data you need if you handle tactfully. You have to be charming with this individual. Be relaxed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you go to good friends for the aid you want, you will get it without delay, and can go ahead with your finest aims. Talk a civic matter over with a bigwig and get the proper slant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to be more active in civic and career matters if you are to get the results you want at this time. A new project can be successful. Stop feeling sorry for yourself.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you converse with one whose thinking is different from yours, you can get the ideas you want at this time. You can gain from a fine, philosophical attitude. Plan a little trip.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over whatever points of difference you have with mate and establish greater harmony between you. Whatever could jeopardize security should be handled quickly. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you show you understand the views of an associate, you can come to a quick understanding now. Express your own views honestly. Being of greater service to the public in general is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have the enthusiasm now to do all that work ahead of you in an efficient manner. Do whatever will bring you better health. Put music into your life and feel happier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Once you have your work done, be sure to go out for recreation you enjoy. Don't leave any loose ends that could worry you and spoil your fun. Put a clever idea you have in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have been neglecting matters at home and this could be a good day to do something constructive about that. Come to a far better meeting of minds with mate and kin.

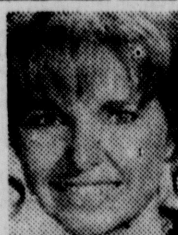

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking ideally and constructively. A plan you have can make you more affluent and happier. You have friends who will gladly go along with you. Avoid limelight tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can add to present abundance appreciably now if you go ahead with a plan you have in mind, instead of being so fearful. Talk it over with a prosperous person you know.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those quick-acting young people who has a good mind but requires the encouragement from parents to make any progress. The chart becomes a successful one, provided your progeny gets a good education that will give sureness of action and direction of purpose. There are many talents here, but some need to be weeded out to attain greatest success.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WRONG WAY (Q.) Terry isn't very good-looking, but I really like him. He is a friend of my brother's. I guess I should say he WAS a friend of my brother's. Anyway, I figured my brother was catching on to how I felt, and I wanted to talk to him about it.

One day we were talking about a really ugly kid, and I said, "Terry isn't too cute, either, is he?" My brother changed the subject and I didn't have a chance to say anything else about Terry and me.

After that, Terry changed. He came over a few times more, but he wasn't friendly to me. Then he stopped coming. I guess my brother told him what I had said and he was mad at both of us.

Now he has a girl friend and in the hall he doesn't even say "hello" to me or smile. He just looks at me and walks on. But deep down I think he still likes me. What should I do? — Loser in Virginia.

(A.) Your brother may have told Terry what you said. But maybe he didn't. Terry may have just got interested in another girl. You could find out by asking your brother.

No matter what, your indirect and unkind slap at Terry did not help YOU. Unkind remarks almost never help the ones who make them.

Be friendly to Terry. Smile even though he doesn't. Ask him some day why he doesn't smile at you any more. And any conversation you have about him from then on have with him, not someone else. And make it direct. And honest, and kind.

LEGS: (Q.) I have been looking for a girl friend and wondering why girls wear those ugly knee socks. I think a girl would have a lot more sex appeal with bare legs and bobbysox. — 16 in Michigan.

(A.) In choosing a girl, don't consider only her legs. But I do agree with you that heavy knee socks are not the sexiest things in the school room. Girls in cold country, however, have to wear something part of the year to keep their legs warm. Bare legs are shivery in very cold weather.

The temperature permitting, most 16-year-old girls look best of all in correctly-fitting sheer stockings or pantyhose.

Cousteau Special Beautiful

NEW YORK (AP) — A walrus is an unlikely television star and an ice floe near the Arctic Circle an unlikely stage for drama. All this changes the moment Jacques Cousteau gets into the act.

The transformation occurred Wednesday night on ABC Television, which broadcast a one-hour "Cousteau special" called "The Smile of the Walrus."

It was a beautiful hour, even for those among us who wouldn't exactly consider themselves walrus buffs. Those who missed the show should petition the network instantly for a rerun.

The program had two themes. One was the annual walrus migration across the Bering Strait from Siberian Alaskan waters and back. The second was what man has done — and recently been prevented from doing — to these comical, ponderous beasts.

Sounds pretty deadly, doesn't it? Maybe, but not through the eyes of Cousteau. For my dough, the show was among the best of the 20 the famed undersea explorer-naturalist has done for ABC since 1968.

The trip north was the first time he and his underwater stock company ever had visited the Arctic.

They set off from the tiny Eskimo village of Gambell on St. Lawrence Island, a snow-covered strip of desolation in the Bering Sea about 200 miles west of Nome.

The younger divers, armed with cameras, plunged into the freezing ocean — the water temperature was below 28 degrees — and returned with a laudatory view of frigid beauty beneath the Arctic ice pack.

Ironically, the program's real beauty started with its saddest moment, when Eskimo hunters killed a female member of the herd. The show emphasized that all the killings were out of need, never greed or sport.

But this one left a four-day-old walrus cub snuggling in fright up to his dead mother. And there either were real tears in his eyes or I am long overdue for a trip to the ophthalmologist.

Left alone, the cub would flounder through the water to the nearest living thing he saw — Cousteau and the others in their open boat. And they hoisted all 125 pounds of him aboard.

The cub was like a friendly puppy, bumping about in constant need of touch and affection. He's alive today at Marineland of the Pacific in California.

Commission Member Suggests Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A economy's behavior in the year since the wage-price freeze Price Commission has suggested "possible modifications" in the administration's economic stabilization program next year including the elimination of price controls from all retail sales and rental units.

Robert F. Lanzillotti told the National Economists Club Wednesday that he also favors abolishment of the profit margin rule and the possible merger of the Price Commission and Pay Board.

Lanzillotti, who emphasized he was speaking only for himself and not giving any official government view, said that "an acceleration in inflation is likely if controls were terminated at this point."

He added, however, that the to rent controls" and "eliminating controls altogether over the retail sector." He said that strong competition at the retail level is enough to hold prices down, especially if controls are maintained at the manufacturing level.

Lanzillotti also said he favored abolishing the commission's profit margin rule which he said was encouraging nonproductive spending by many firms who find the present rule too restrictive.

He said the inflation rate should be slashed to 2 per cent from the current 2 to 3 per cent target range.

Lanzillotti said he favored, as "possible modifications" to the current program, "an early end

46 Greek Sailors Missing After Collision of Two Ships

ATHENS (UPI) — Forty-six Greek sailors were missing and presumed dead today following the collision of two ships, one of which sliced into the Merlin and the other owned by millionaire shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos, in the worst Greek maritime disaster in six years.

One man was killed when the 2,000-ton navy transport Merlin was rammed by a giant oil tanker Wednesday five miles outside the "Never on Sunday" port of Piraeus.

The Merlin sank with 45 of its 59 crewmen. Authorities said 14 men were rescued but one of crew members," a spokesman He said the World Hero, owned by the Niarchos-controlled Aquarius shipping line of Liberia, had been at the Niarchos shipyards near Piraeus for 10 days for repairs. It was on its way to a loading port when the collision occurred.

Navy frogmen and vessels continued the search today. Navy authorities proclaimed three days of military mourning and two separate inquiries into the disaster were launched. Questioned about the causes of the collision, the Niarchos spokesman said: "The little landing craft found itself in front of the big ship."

Aid Rushed to Stricken Cutter

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — Rescue ships and aircraft today rushed to aid the stricken Coast Guard cutter Jarvis which officials said had 170 persons aboard. The cutter radioed an SOS, saying she was taking on water in the North Pacific near Akutan Island in the Aleutians.

A spokesman at 17th Coast Guard District headquarters in Juneau said the 378-foot Jarvis had lost all means of propulsion in mountainous seas.

Although flooding in the ship's engine room was reported to be serious, the crew aboard the Honolulu-based high endurance cutter was in no immediate danger, Coast Guard spokesmen said.

The flooding was apparently the result of damage from a grounding which occurred early Wednesday in Dutch Harbor in high winds and heavy seas, to four hours away from the Emergency repairs were made. The cutter was permitted her departure from Dutch Harbor. The Jarvis was conducting a routine Alaska fisheries patrol ships and aircraft were dispatched to the aid of the Jarvis Harbor occurred, Coast Guard and several merchant vessels spokesmen said.
